

<https://refdb.ru/look/1887264.html>

Книга Психотронная Голгофа является сокращенным вариантом моей основной нигде не.doc
The book Psychotron Calvary is an abridged version of my basic nowhere.doc

Nikolai Ivanovich Anisimov - Psychotronic Golgotha

FROM THE AUTHOR

The forthcoming book "Psychotronic Golgotha" is an abridged version of my main unpublished book "Psychotronic Golgotha" with the subtitle "Twelve years in the KGB psychotronic torture chamber". The book is written in simple and accessible language, designed for a wide range of readers. Along with the well-known information the book contains confidential information about the secret criminal and many years of psychotronic warfare of the communist and post-communist state against its own people. While writing the book I used various sources of information: scientific and special literature, military publications and reference books, articles in the mass media, interviews with experts and scientists, classified information and my own experience as a victim of psychotronic weapons. The abridged variant of the book contains only a small part of all available information. But it also sufficiently informs readers about the monstrous and blatant atrocity committed against the peoples of the former USSR. I am sure that after reading the book, there will be many victims who have experienced and continue to experience all the horror and heinousness of the psychotronic terror.

This book consists of five parts. In the first part I introduce readers to the technologies of psychotronic treatment of the population, exotic types of modern weapons and the development of scientific and technical progress in areas close to the subject of psychotronic weapons. The major part is devoted to the participation of domestic psychiatry and special services in the commission of this monstrous crime and their punitive functions. Describing the most significant events, which took place in our country during the last years, I consider that I objectively and logically substantiated their creation and development in view of psychotronic weapons application. I briefly touch upon the topic of creation and functioning of the human rights movement. Briefly touching upon the imperfect legislation connected with the mass committing of psychotronic crimes, which threatens the national security of the countries of the former USSR, I suggest the public of these countries to urgently demand their parliamentarians to introduce into the constitutions and criminal legislation a set of laws prohibiting psychotronic, psychotronic weapons and other means of remote control of human psychophysical activity and their use against the population. The second part of the book is essentially factual material for the international tribunal. It contains documented stories of the victims of psychotronic weapons, subjected to monstrous mutilation, mockery, abuse and destruction by the criminal state. The chapters of this part of the book "What is psychotronic terror?" and "Psychotronic tortures and torments" will not only interest the uninitiated readers, but will enable the lawyers to qualify correctly the committed crime. The third part of the book tells of the unequal struggle of the human rights movement against the heinous crime of the century. Considering this topic to be relevant, I have included a significant number of documents in this part. The fourth part contains some of the most telling examples proving the existence of non-lethal weapons and their use against the population. The book ends with short stories, interviews, surveys and publications.

The idea of creating such an unusual book could not arise on its own. The author must have some reason or reason for doing so. In my case, one of the main reasons was the fact that for twelve years I myself have been a victim of a monstrous crime committed against me by the state security system.

By including my story in the chapter "From the Author," my purpose was to show readers, in the most convincing way possible, the involvement of the secret services in the heinous crime of the century, and to finally restore justice in terms of publishing truthful information about me. The fact is that for many years the zombified or censored mass media, or those cooperating with the KGB, had been publishing my story in a distorted form, removing political motivations and direct evidence of the involvement of the secret services in the crime committed against me. Distorted information was reprinted and disseminated in huge numbers throughout Russia, the former Soviet Union and abroad. And at the end of 1996 and at the beginning of 1997 the special services with their backs to the wall published two criminal articles about me in the national newspaper which were aimed at discrediting me as a leader of human rights organization which is denouncing use of psychotronic and other identical weapons against the population. There was not a single credible fact or event in the articles. Everything was present in them: open slander, cynical insults and humiliation, criminal charges, and much more. There is no doubt that in a normal country, the author of such rabid, deceitful and dirty articles, along with the editor, should sit in jail for defamation in print, for insulting honor and dignity, and for association with terrorists. But. Readers can find out more about this by reading the chapter entitled "Elimination."

Before introducing readers to my not-so-ordinary history, I think it necessary to touch briefly on the very origins of its emergence.

I was born in 1945 in Irkutsk. Immediately after my birth my parents moved to Novosibirsk, where my father, a military engineer, was appointed head of the technical department in one of the military departments of the SIBVO headquarters, and my mother took a job in one of the Novosibirsk Research Institute as a scientific secretary. My elder brother was seriously engaged in sports. Practically all my childhood passed among scientific books, military reference books, dissertations, military ranges, soldiers' barracks and gyms. From my parents I received a good and varied education, and my brother instilled in me a lifelong love of sports. Not being born a slave, I had a very hard time fitting in with the reality around me. My parents were not communists, there were repressed people in their families. My father did not accept the communist ideology at all, he condemned the communist regime, although he never talked about it openly. Being perfectly aware of history and having an excellent knowledge of politics, he sometimes took out banned books and let me read them, at the same time explaining to me how to survive under the conditions of the communist dictatorship. But my father's advice didn't always sink in in my childhood mind. In fourth grade I was expelled from school for refusing to wear a pioneer tie and for making unflattering remarks about the leader of the world proletariat and his party. At that time my father had great difficulty in getting me reinstated and avoiding serious trouble at school. Since then I have never voted, nor have I been a member of the Komsomol or the Communist Party. There were events in my life that significantly influenced the formation of my worldview. At the end of the 60s I began to engage in anti-communist and human rights activities. These activities consisted of anti-communist propaganda, official rejections of communist elections, distributing international documents on human rights among the population, exposing Soviet scientific and punitive medicine. Some of the documents related to the cooperation of Soviet medicine with the Ministry of Defense, the KGB, and the Interior Ministry, I passed on to foreign nationals whenever possible.

I believe that I supposedly fell under the unspoken supervision of the KGB 20-25 years ago. Subsequently, during detention, arrest and reprisals, KGB officers confirmed my assumption. The official supervision was established in 1985. The Chekists began their open terrorist activity in 1986 with an assassination attempt on me in Zelenograd. Then I was repressed by the KGB and the Interior Ministry. Repression was carried out by KGB

Major Lebedev (Zelenograd-Lubyanka) and Deputy Head of the Department of Internal Affairs of Zelenograd. And in 1987 the KGB system began to use psychotronic weapons against me according to the following programs: remote control of the brain, control of emotions and functioning of internal organs, conducting special medical-biological, pharmacological and psychotronic experiments. The main direction of which was to work out a system of human survival in artificially created stressful and extreme situations with subsequent slow and step-by-step destruction of humans as waste material.

In 1988, after my brief appeal to the West, the KGB temporarily left me alone in order to cover up the crime. At that time I joined the first political opposition party, the Democratic Union (DS), and became active in political and human rights activities. That same year the KGB assigned its agent A. Chuiko, who went by the code name "Ethan", to carry out secret surveillance on me. He was assigned to steal from me various anti-government documents, DC programs and proclamations, preferably as many as possible written in my hand and with my signature, and to discredit me among political parties and young scientists of Novosibirsk Akademgorodok in order to prevent the disclosure of the psychotronic warfare in the USSR. The same discrediting and with the same purposes Lubyanka, using its agents, carries out here in Moscow. After his refusal to cooperate with the KGB, A. Chuiko made an official statement according to which the leadership of the Novosibirsk region KGB, represented by its chief General Frolov, KGB officers: Troyan, Denisov and Firsenko planned to destroy four political activists of Novosibirsk. He named my name third on the list. Destruction was supposed to be carried out by a psychotronic weapon, a method of destruction of the intellect and body. At present the chairman of Novosibirsk branch of the Conservative party of Russia V. Orekhov is completely localized, and I am on the verge of destruction. The other condemned were saved from reprisals by a timely warning. A. Chuiko's revelations were published in the newspaper Moskovsky Komsomolets for September 26, 1993, in the article "Thousand days of zombies" with the subtitle "Confessions of a snitch". To confirm this information, the Moscow branch of the Information Center for Human Rights has a statement by A. Chuiko and a tape recording.

Before my eyes the Novosibirsk branches of the Democratic Union and the Conservative Party of Russia were smashed to smithereens by psychotronic weapons. Victims of psychotronic weapons appeared among the members of these political organizations. Under the influence of psychotronic weapons many Novosibirsk democratic and human rights publications ceased to exist.

In 1989, after receiving the latest responses from the Moscow prosecutor's office regarding the criminal offenses previously committed against me, the KGB system began using psychotronic weapons against me again.

In 1990 I officially renounced my Soviet citizenship. The second day after I submitted my documents to the OVIR, the KGB, together with the Ministry of Internal Affairs, tried to fabricate a criminal case against me, accusing me of committing a non-existent crime. That same year the KGB system desecrated the graves of my relatives and then deprived me of even a low-paying job, leaving me virtually without means of subsistence, completely blocking my mail and phone. During the years of terror, which were twelve years of human life, the KGB system committed twelve unpunished criminal offenses against me, many provocations, searches, and discrediting. By purposefully destroying my relative and comrades who knew a lot with psychotronic weapons, the Chekists passed their deaths off as natural, faking various internal diseases. My mother was turned into a blind and deaf invalid, bedridden. My daughter gave birth to an unusual child with signs of mutation. As a consequence of prolonged treatment with psychotronic weapons I acquired more than 25 chronic diseases, running in acute inflammatory form not amenable to any treatment. I was infected with several serious illnesses, there were injections of psychotropic drugs instead of painkillers. As a result of long-term irradiation of various parts of my brain I lost my vision significantly, my frontal bone deformed, atrophy of the cerebellar worm occurred in the occipital part of my head, my height reduced by 7 cm in a very short time, etc. All artificially created changes in the body are produced by purposeful manipulation according to the scheme: positive - negative, negative - positive and testifies to the fact that psychotronic processing is performed on a subtle genetic level. Molar teeth that fell out, nails that periodically came off, first and second-degree radiation burns on my body, hair that began to fall out, eye pigmentation changes, changes in the structure of skeletal bones, muscles and organs located on my face testify to the fact that irreversible changes, inevitably leading to death, occur in my organism as a result of purposeful irradiation. Somatic destruction is periodically combined with purposeful information torture on the principle of associative and neurolinguistic psychoprogramming known to specialists with the use of a supercomputer.

All of the above facts are confirmed by special expertise, legal and medical documents, witness testimony and physical evidence.

During the years of terror I sent personal and collective applications, human rights documents and factual material to practically all legal instances of the country. In 1990 they reached the president of the USSR M. Gorbachev, and in 1991 in Novosibirsk I personally handed over a huge package of human rights documents, the press and my personal appeal to the president of Russian Federation B. Yeltsin. But presidents and officials always got off with either absurd replies or persistent silence.

Despite the fact that my story, replete with political motives, clearly shows the involvement of the KGB in the commission of crimes, the Chekists, confident of their full impunity, continue their atrocities, while incorporating into their programs more and more elements of their own so-called "poltergeist", which, oddly enough, to this day serves their masters as an ideal cover for the open use of psychotronic and other types of modern exotic weapons against the population.

PSYCHOTRONIC WEAPONS

At the dawn of scientific and technological progress dictators and governments of totalitarian states dreamed of turning the ancient occult sciences and hidden capabilities of the human psyche into technical weapons in order to make their own population conformistly obedient and blindly following the will of the dictator and his entourage. They also cherished the monstrous idea of using super-weapons to enslave other nations and become rulers of the world. With the creation of this type of weapon, the military received an ideal weapon of mass enslavement and destruction, while the secret services received an ideal zombie agent, capable of obtaining and transmitting secret information without a radio and a gun. But if at the end of the last century it was impossible to realize these dreams, due to underdevelopment of technology, then at the beginning of the 20th century, when scientific and technological progress began to develop intensively, these dreams began to be realized in practice.

One of the founders of domestic psychotronic weapons is Academician V. Bekhterev. In 1925 Bekhterev's group conducted the first experiments on collective indoctrination of emotions at a distance. Mass suggestion was carried out through a radio network. F.Dzerzhinsky's daughter M.Talce and associate professor D.Luntz made a significant contribution to the creation of the devil's weapon. They were developing the combined psychotronic technologies based on interaction of special drugs and technical equipment. Lubyanka prisoners and patients of psychiatric institutions were used as guinea pigs. With the invention of television came the possibility of mass psychotronic treatment of the population through television receivers. After the defeat of Nazi Germany scientific research in the field of psychotechnological weapons fell into the hands of the Soviet military and Chekists and gave a significant impetus to the creation of domestic psychotronic weapons.

At the end of the 50s, modern domestic psychotronic weapons came out of the laboratory buildings of closed research institutes and began to enter the armed forces of special services and the military. At the same time the "List of Information Prohibited for Publication" included a clause prohibiting the open publication of materials on technical means intended to influence human behavioral functions and on the possibilities for controlling human behavior. At the end of the 70s the psychotronic weapons began to come off the conveyors of secret factories and were applied to the population on a mass scale. At the end of the 80s, with the appearance of glasnost, the first publications appeared, exposing the clients and manufacturers of psychotronic weapons. In the late 1980s, for the first time in the country, a human rights movement began to be created, waging an unequal struggle against the monstrous crime of the century.

SCIENTIFIC CANNIBALISM, PSYCHOTRONIC WEAPONS, AND DIABOLICAL TECHNOLOGY

Synopsis: The direction of the closed research institutes working on the creation and improvement of psychotronic weapons: 1. Physics, 2. Biophysics, 3. Biochemistry, 4. Psychobiophysics, 5. Biocybernetics, 6. Radioelectronics, 7. Psychotronics, 8. Biology, 9. Medicine, 10. Space. Secret research institutes solve the following tasks: geopolitical, ideological, military, police, medical and biological, research, industrial and economic, expert evaluation of psychotronic wars. Narrow specialization: a) Development of technical means for remote control and management of human thinking process, b) Improvement of technologies for remote control of human behavior and organism using electromagnetic, magnetic fields and acoustic waves as a directional source, c) Using telekinesis of technotronic nature to influence technical systems, d) Remote switching on and off of electronics and explosives, e) Development of instruments for remote control of 1. Geopolitical tasks: development of system for remote control of third countries, expert appraisals of geopolitical hotbeds of tension and their localization 2. Ideological tasks, remote influence on population in order to create law-abiding society, loyal to the existing state system and political system 3. Military tasks: expert assessments of psychotronic warfare against hostile states, technical protection of troops and population against psychotronic weapons affecting factors, interaction of psychotronic weapons use with other types of non-lethal weapons, interaction of psychotronic weapons with other types of modern weapons, interaction of army units, 4. Police tasks: control and management of criminal groups and individual criminals, investigative and operational activities, suppression of demonstrations and demonstrations, interaction of special services, 5. Biomedical tasks: new technologies of disease treatment using psychotronic equipment and pharmacological agents, remote control over public health, remote control and management of people with mental deviations, remote personality change at genetic and psychophysical levels, 6. Space tasks: launching of psychotronic weapons (apparatuses) into space in order to control and manage population behavior; remote control and management of cosmonauts, 7. Research tasks: development of new technologies of psychotronic weapons and psychotronic equipment, their interaction with environment and pharmacological agents, 8. Production and economic tasks: remote automation of production and economic activities, remote control of urban communications and transport 9, Agricultural tasks: increasing crop yields, control and management of livestock 10.

Geological tasks, remote search for minerals, 11. Climatic tasks, remote control of weather conditions and cataclysms.

According to data from the Military Historical Academy, there was a long period before the beginning of World War II when Soviet and German military scientists worked together to develop chemical weapons, and in the secret laboratories in Volsk (Shikhany-1), they worked closely together to create psychotechnological weapons. Few people know that in the 20-27 years in the Soviet Union there were many joint Soviet-German aviation and armor schools, where future fascist aces were trained in military skills. The Military History Academy names several such places. For example, in Lipki there was a joint Soviet-German aviation school, and in Saratov region there was a joint Soviet-German armored school.

After the end of World War II, interest in creating psychotechnological weapons swept virtually all military circles of the world's leading countries. In the late 40's, using these developments, military scientists in many countries of the world conducted countless experiments to create a universal drug with which human behavior could be controlled. Finally, such a drug had been created. It was called LSD. In 1951, the Swiss company Condor, which received the monopoly on its production, illegally sold 50 million doses of the drug to the Soviet Union.

There is information that already at the end of the 50s, Soviet scientists created a whole series of domestic unique pharmacological preparations - behavior modifiers, special gaseous and chemical agents - for the same purpose. It is probably not difficult to guess who was their customer and where they found their application. In subsequent years, special pharmacological centers continued to create more and more behavior modifiers. By the end of the 1970s their production became quite widespread and led to complete secrecy of military facilities involved in their production.

There are reports that medical workers, collaborating with special services and the military-industrial complex, when performing surgical operations and vaccinations of the population, inserted microchip plates freely placed in epidemic needles into the bodies of patients. After such microchips are inserted, a person becomes a radio-controlled biorobot. According to confidential information, about 30% of the population of the former Soviet Union have microchips in their bodies.

Psychotronic weapon is a complex of unique electron-beam apparatus, capable at large distances to control the psychophysical activity of a person, purposefully destroying his health. Psychotronic weapon is a high-precision, intelligent weapon, which is used in conjunction with other types of non-lethal weapons and weapons of psychotechnology.

Reference: In 1995 at 36, Prospekt Mira, in the Moscow branch of the Information Center for Human Rights, Direction: Protection of citizens against psychotronic terrorism, a colloquium of scientists took place, where it was decided: "In connection with the secrecy of weapons of psychotechnology and confusion in terminology, all types and types of weapons capable of remote control of human psychophysical activity, to change the environment, used in combination, to call psychotronic weapons".

Affecting factor of psychotronic weapons is: torsion generators, microwave generators, lasers, acoustic and microwave equipment, using both powerful energy sources of stationary and mobile psychotronic stations located on the Earth and taken into Space, and the physics of the environment, as well as chemical and gaseous means. Focused types of radiation without interference and without losing a given power freely penetrate through any barriers and with high precision hit the selected victim at any distance. The impact is carried out at the cellular-molecular level by psychophysical processing of the brain and human body on the principle of associative and neurolinguistic psychoprogramming with the use of radioacoustic effect and remote tomography. Psychotronic complex is controlled by Supercomputer and staff of operators. Computer psychoprogramming is performed according to the following scheme: operator-computer-victim, and in reverse sequence: victim-computer-operator. Information exchange according to this scheme is called biofeedback (Biofeedback). Influence, exerted on a person, may be positive, negative or neutral. Radiation components of weapons can change instrument readings and chemical reactions, which allows terrorists to avoid exposure and punishment for a long time.

There are three ways of psychotronic influence on a person: covert, open and combined. During covert influence the victim does not know and does not even suspect that his brain and organism are being remotely influenced. She takes all alien thought messages as her own, she attributes all painful states to natural illnesses, to a bad state of her health. Such person-victim, under influence on his psyche, can commit any criminal offence, join one or another political group under manipulation of his brain. Such a person-victim can be easily put into any psychological state, a state of insanity, to imitate any mental illness to the victim. At the same time, the person will think that he himself committed the criminal offence, that he himself has some political views and beliefs, that he himself has a mental illness. Such a person is a biorobot, because he unknowingly fulfills the will of other people's criminals. Such a human biorobot is the most dangerous for any society. The covert method of influence is the main way to control large masses of the population. With overt influence the human victim knows and understands that his brain and body are being psycho-physically influenced. Such a person is artificially imposed and inculcated with a special system of settings, contributing to the withdrawal of information from his brain and introduction into it, his rapid psychoprogramming, and in some cases, reprogramming - complete or partial personality restructuring, biorobotization. The human-victim, intended for this purpose, very often cannot distinguish his own thoughts from the artificially introduced ones. But usually biorobots are created by applying covert influence to the victim. In addition to the covert and overt method, there is a combined method where the victim's brain is under covert influence and the somatic organism under overt influence. The overt and combined influence is done by manipulating the judgement of the YES-NO principle. Manipulation of the psyche is combined with manipulation of the functions of the internal organs, of the whole body. Usually operators are trained on victims with open and combined influence, they create the latest types of psychotronic weapons, conduct medical-biological and pharmacological experiments.

TOTALITARIAN SECTS ARE A TESTING GROUND FOR PSYCHOTRONIC WEAPONS

The most telling example of the use of psychotronic weapons on a mass scale can be the recent exposure of the totalitarian sect "White Brotherhood", funded by the Ministry of Defense and the KGB-FSB. The Ministries of Justice of the former Soviet Union and the Russian Federation freely register hundreds of totalitarian sects equipped with psychotronic weapons, among which is the public international terrorist sect Aum Shinrikyo, which has the closest connection with the Russian security services and the military. This sect carried out mass zombification of the population using the Russian radio station Mayak. The leaders of these sects, fulfilling the orders of the military, special services and those in power, cripple hundreds of thousands of children, turning them into biorobots. On the territory of the former Soviet Union there are hundreds of special schools, students of which are exposed to neurolinguistic psychoprogramming

WITCHES, WITCHES, AND OTHER EVIL SPIRITS UNDER THE UMBRELLA OF GOVERNMENT AGENCIES

In the former Soviet Union, the Russian Federation, in 1988 alone, thousands of "healing" centers of non-traditional medicine appeared, equipped with ultra-modern medical and psychotronic equipment produced by classified factories. These centers widely use occult science, which is the basis of psychotronic technology. As a rule, the heads of the centers are classified, and the staff has two higher educations - medical and technical. Probably it is not difficult to guess where, when and on whom the unique equipment was created. For instance, physicist and physicist I. Smirnov carried out experiments on inmates in one of the Moscow mental hospitals using psychotronic generators; Academician V. Kaznacheev, Director of the Institute of ECEM of SB AMS USSR, and his colleagues conducted medical and biological-technical experiments on patients of their clinic and the population of Novosibirsk; and Academician N. Bekhtereva and her colleagues conducted experiments on patients of the "Brain" clinic, which she headed, etc. Centers with the blessing of the Ministry of Health annually produce thousands of zombified retransmitters with diplomas of "sorcerers" in their pockets.

Kashpirovsky's, Chumak's and other "miracle-workers" TV-sessions fit into the single global system of psychotronic weapons development and are nothing but obedient toys in the hands of criminal maniacs, who sit at the control boards of technical psychotronic weapons. If anyone has any doubts about the correctness of the above written lines, a person who has read them should consider Kashpirovsky and others to be either sorcerers and witches or wizards and magicians, and hang their faces either next to Baba-Yaga or Nicholas the Elijah.

In issuing licenses to people who allegedly possess witchcraft, the leadership of the Ministry of Health simultaneously denies any possibility to manipulate people. Moreover, all those who report any external influence on them are subjected to forced "treatment" in psychiatric hospitals, where they are given many of the worst psychiatric diagnoses, with the blessing of the Ministry of Health. The inadequacy and illogic of such actions of higher medical doctors defies not only logic, but also ordinary, even the most primitive comprehension. In this connection, the conclusion suggests itself - government agencies, designed to guard the health of the population, are direct accomplices in a monstrous crime.

MODERN EXOTIC WEAPONS

In addition to nuclear and non-lethal weapons, modern weapons of mass destruction include: biological, chemical, geological, biospheric, atmospheric, hydrospheric, (WTO), (DNFD), (PUI), psychotropic, technotropic, biotropic.

Characteristics of these weapons.

Biological weapons. Biological weapons are divided into three types: bacteriological, toxin, and genetic. Biological weapons are affected by bacteria, viruses, poisons and toxins, which cause suffering, mutilation and death to mankind. One drop of plague bacteria bred in secret laboratories is enough to infect the entire population of Moscow and the Moscow region. Special bacteria capable of secreting psychotropic substances have been bred. These substances are supposed to be used to control the human psyche. Classified VChK-KGB special laboratories widely used and still use toxic substances and a variety of poisons to contain undesirable individuals. In order to increase operative surveillance of a controlled object, the KGB may treat things belonging to the object with chemical and radioactive substances. Foreign diplomats accredited in the Soviet Union repeatedly protested about this. It is due to the use of radioactive isotopes by the KGB that no household dosimeters were produced in the country, due to which the party and state leadership managed for four years to conceal from the population the real scale of the Chernobyl disaster and still manages to conceal the levels of radioactive contamination of food and medicinal herbs consumed by the population.

Secret laboratories working on genetic weapons have long produced bacteria that do not exist in the natural environment of the globe and therefore pose a particular danger because of the difficulty of detecting and neutralizing them. Bacteria and viruses have been created that act only on certain groups of population depending on their race or nationality.

In their experiments, geneticists have reached the edge of the worst experimental abyss. After all, even the tiniest carelessness or incompetence in 'safety measures, and most importantly the unpredictable behavior of new life forms can lead to the most unexpected consequences, posing a threat to all mankind. Many experts declare that genetic weapons are more destructive than nuclear missiles.

The following are used to treat enemy manpower and populations: space, aviation, special projectiles and bombs, special launchers using airspace, sabotage, inoculations, injections, infecting food and water bodies. The creation and testing of biological weapons is carried out on prisoners, military contingents, patients of medical institutions, the population of villages and cities. For example, on two islands in the Aral Sea, Vozrozhdeniye and Komsomolskiy, tests of biological weapons were carried out for more than 50 years. The military personnel serving at the testing range and the animals delivered there by air were used as "guinea pigs".

Currently, due to the drying up of the sea, Vozrozhdeniya Island has risen above the water level and exposed its soil, which is full of bacteria and poisons. Scientists who surveyed the island made a statement that the islands are a danger to the entire Central Asian region because birds and insects can become carriers of plague, typhus, anthrax and tularemia. In September 1991 a plague epidemic broke out in Aralsk and only through the incredible efforts of local authorities was the epidemic quickly contained.

In 1979, there was an outbreak of anthrax in Sverdlovsk. Dozens of people and livestock were affected. The culprit was a military camp number 18, located in one of the districts of Sverdlovsk. It turned out that this small town, located in the center of the largest city, is a research center engaged in the development of biological weapons. During the work of a government commission the head of the military camp, General Mikhailov, committed suicide. The KGB gagged anyone who could shed light on the cause of the epidemic.

The St. Petersburg State Research Institute of Extremely Pure Biopreparations has been producing biological weapons for several years. The main focus of the research institute is the production of a high-quality strain of plague. No one would have known that St. Petersburg was home to a research facility dangerous to the population if the former director of the institute, Pasechnik, who remained in the West, had not told journalists and the Western public about the real profile of the institute. St. Petersburg is literally stuffed with secret research institutes that produce various types of modern weapons. According to statistical data, the population of the northern capital decreased by a significant number only for six months of 1992.

In January 1992, 36 pigs suddenly died in the Kaluga Region, on the Kaluga subsistence farm of the former Soviet KGB. Veterinarians diagnosed the classical form of plague. Kaluga Oblast was threatened with a mass epizootic, but fortunately the outbreak was quickly contained.

In March 1992, bacteriological weapons were used in Nagorno-Karabakh.

Near Moscow, in the village of Obolenskoye, there is a secret research institute that develops bacteriological weapons. The village is not listed on any map of the Moscow region, but the signboard of the institute says that it is engaged in the development of chemicals to combat plant pests. The staff includes more than a hundred PhDs, ten doctors and three professors. For several years, the institute has been developing special bacteria capable of secreting psychotropic substances. These substances are designed to control the human psyche.

In July 1990, an airplane flew over Rostov-on-Don, leaving a plume of a toxic cloud that landed on working-class neighborhoods of the city. The authorities had to evacuate residents to safety. Among those evacuated, many had to be hospitalized.

In the past few years, experts claim that the former Soviet Union ranks first in the world in the growth of parasitic diseases.

In 1972, the Soviet Union signed the International Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Stockpiling and Proliferation of Biological Weapons in Geneva. In 1975 the convention was ratified. Exactly 20 years after signing the convention, the President of the Russian Federation Boris Yeltsin issued the Decree "On the Prohibition of the Development and Stockpiling and Spread of Biological Weapons. Yeltsin issued a decree "On Ensuring Compliance with Obligations in the Field of Biological Weapons". But even this decree has not been fulfilled. In the secret laboratories of research institutes of the Ministry of Defense and the KGB-FSB, the development of these terrible weapons is still going on.

Chemical weapons. Our country ranks first in the world in the production of chemical weapons. Chemical weapons are poisonous substances. Chemical weapons are divided into two groups: chemical warfare agents (CW) and toxic substances (PS). In the USSR, chemical weapons were first used in 1921 for suppression of the Kronstadt Mutiny. The Soviet armies used chemical weapons in Vietnam and Afghanistan. There are reports of the use of chemical weapons in Chechnya. With the assistance of Soviet specialists, plants specializing in the production of modern chemical weapons were built in Libya and Iraq.

In cities located along the banks of the Volga River and its tributaries Oka and Kama the main facilities for the production of chemical agents and chemical warfare agents, testing sites and storage bases for chemical weapons are dispersed. In Volsk - 17 (Shihany-1) in the State Institute of Organic Synthesis Technologies (GITOS) the production of police gases and psychotropic agents is established. Due to the discharge of chemically harmful substances into the great Russian river, it has long been included in the red book. Trouble did not bypass the capital either. In 1980, a fire in the Moscow State Research Institute of Chemical Technology, where chemical weapons are being developed, carried away with the wind and water several grams of the highly toxic substance vi-x.

Despite the international convention signed by our country banning the production, stockpiling and distribution of chemical weapons, the former Soviet Union continues to increase its production. Not only that, but it tries to keep it completely secret. For example, in October 1992 KGB investigators charged two military chemists with divulging state secrets. One of the accused, Vil Mirzoyanov, told readers from the pages of Moskovskie Novosti newspaper about the threat to the public from further development of chemical weapons. Only public intervention prevented the authorities and the military from carrying out the massacre.

THE COMPUTER WILL DESTROY HUMANITY

Cybernetics is a science based on translating the principles of the human brain into technical machines called electronic computing machines (ECMs). In 1945, the first domestic computer was created. Computers in the 40-50s performed tasks designed to automatically control the most complex processes and systems. At the end of the 50s, computers performed tasks to replace humans with automatics. Computers of the 60's were designed for machine modeling, pattern recognition, creating algorithmic languages. In the 70s, computers successfully replaced the physician. With the development of computer tomography based on X-rays, nuclear magnetic resonators (NMR) were created, the operation of which is based on the effect of nuclear magnetic resonance. NMR registers all processes occurring in the brain and other organs of the human body with great accuracy. Modified NMR tomograph was used in the development of psychotronic weapons.

Academicians Marchuk and Kolmogorov were actively involved in the creation of modern medical technology. Kolmogorov once said in the late 1960s: "The fundamental possibility of creating full-fledged living beings based on discrete digital mechanisms of information processing and control does not contradict the principles of materialistic dialectics. As a result, automata can be created that will become "living artificial beings" capable of reproduction and progressive revolution in higher forms, possessing emotions, will, and thinking, and they will become above humans.

In the 70s there was a qualitative leap in the technological basis of computer science and cybernetics. The computer park became saturated with mini-computers, the microprocessor revolution began. The human factor came to the forefront in the "machine-human interaction".

John Loylen in the 70's created an artificial personality model named OLDOS, which reproduced the processes of identification, emotional response, choice of actions, ability to self-analyze and learn. OLDOS exhibited fear, anger, love, hostility, or indifference.

In the USSR, the patriarch of domestic cybernetics was the Institute of Cybernetics of the Ukrainian SSR Academy of Sciences, headed by Academician Glushkov. The Institute was established on the basis of the All-Union Center of the Academy of Sciences of the Ukrainian SSR. The main slogan of the Ukrainian scientists was "Put cybernetics to work for communism! The Institute was engaged in modeling of biological processes. The Institute created a model of life and a model of personality. The machine they created modeled Darwin's Law. Scientists developed in the automaton they created all the basics of behavior necessary for survival. The "external environment" and the "inhabitants" of this environment, responding to any changes in the conditions of existence, were created. Experiments on electronic mechanisms survival were conducted in the Institute. Only those that moved toward nutrition survived. These beings multiplied, i.e. created their own kind. The computer developed many specialties. One of these specialties was electronic surveillance and electronic surveillance. Private life of citizens fell under the watchful eye of the police computer. Soviet police cybernetics was the ancestor of police cybernetics in the socialist countries. Computer police systems were an invisible network that entangled cities of the Soviet Union and linked up with computer systems of the socialist camp countries.

Beginning in the 60s, computers began to be used in the military, scientific medicine and industrial and economic activities. In the 70s, the military got so-called "smart weapons" which did not need the skills and training of a missile launcher or a strategic bomber navigator. The computer took care of all missile and bomb targeting operations and was able to hit the target with centimeter accuracy. For example, the bombing system of a modern aircraft invisible to enemy radars, controlled by a dozen onboard computers, could direct a bomb into a vent hatch of a reinforced concrete bunker, and a missile controlled by a computer system could maneuver among buses and cars of a modern city and hit the target with pinpoint accuracy. In the recent years there were developed homing war missiles with autonomous onboard computers. Sensors that respond to light, infrared radiation and radio waves radiated or reflected by the target serve as sensory organs of such a missile. An onboard computer, guided by sense perception, generates commands to move the rocket in a given direction. The computer is widely used in space technology. Modern computer-controlled electronics can perform any complex manipulations with great accuracy and super-fast. Computers are widely used in the exploration of outer space, sensing the Earth's surface, its interior, providing space flights, monitoring the health of astronauts and the militarization of space. Cybernetics is involved in ensuring the proper operation of all systems of the spacecraft launched into space. Any object on Earth can be monitored from space. Modern advances in science and technology make it possible to see from space even the tentacles of a small insect, allowing you to penetrate inside, to interfere in the physiological processes occurring in it. Modern technical systems make it possible to hear from space the whispers of a person deep under the ground. Special space systems have been developed to control climatic weather conditions over vast areas. With the help of special mirrors and electronics it is possible to illuminate northern cities from space during the polar night. Transmission of microwave energy over a distance, directly from Earth into space, is used for remote wireless power supply of almost all space stations of the latest generation. For more than 25 years there has been Soviet military space. Space nuclear power plants reliably provide electric power to all military space objects. There is information that Soviet scientists have long ago put into space a unified space system to control society, which interacts with ground-based psychotronic stations, operating according to a scheme: Earth - Space - Earth.

Special attention has always been paid to medical cybernetics, which, in conjunction with other scientific fields, was to become and has become the most monstrous weapon of the century.

In the late 60s the development of computerization saw the emergence of artificial intelligence, which the military and intelligence agencies were immediately interested in. Today's fifth-generation computer, designed for psychotronic processing of the population, operates according to the scheme of hybrid intelligence, optimally combining the capabilities of human mind and microcomputer technology, organically synthesizing both in a single human-machine complex. Hybrid intelligence, combined with various modifications of psychotropic and psychotronic generators, turns our country into a technocratic society, consisting of the elite and slave law-abiding population serving it. At the end of the same 60's biological cybernetics - bionics - became widespread. The purpose of this science is to transfer the principles of systems operation, controlling living organisms, to technology. The creation of micro-miniature models of neurons and the development of reliable and simple ways to organize a huge number of such models into coherent models led to the creation of devices similar to our brains. Military scientists have developed and manufactured human-technical organs to create a "human cyborg robot". Such a mutant has the ability to directly perceive ultrasound, ultraviolet rays and a wide variety of nuclear radiation, broadcasting and television programs. A cyborgized person in this way can see in the dark, sees even the heat traces of any moving object or person. The cyborg brain works in symbiosis with a fifth-generation computer located in a military control center for cyborg soldier units. To create such units people are used who were born with pronounced abnormalities of the brain, have been in closed psychiatric hospitals since childhood, as well as those who survived clinical death and are listed in official documents as deceased. These people would have their abnormal and failed human organs replaced in special research centers with human-technical organs necessary for their cyborgization. In the secret laboratories of the military-industrial complex and the KGB Research Institute, scientists work with computers to create mutant robots with programmed brains. Such mutant robots are a synthesis of humans, animals and electronics. Along with mutant robots there are purely technical robots, stuffed with modern electronics, which serve in the army and represent a special kind of troops.

YELLOW GULAG AND PSYCHOTRONIC WARFARE

In Russia, the well-known all over the world Soviet punitive psychiatry has resumed its activity, which until now has been a punitive organ of the state and a screen for the unpunished use of psychotronic and other types of modern exotic weapons against the civilian population. In contrast to previous times, repressions in the Yellow Gulag are legitimized by the judiciary, which in almost all cases ignores or arbitrarily interprets the far from perfect law "On Psychiatric Assistance and Guarantees of Citizens' Rights in Providing It," constitutional articles, criminal, civil, and international legislation.

The history of punitive psychiatry in our country dates back to the 1920s. For example, an article stipulating the use of psychiatry on political opponents was introduced into the Criminal Code of 1926. In 1939, Beria issued a special order transferring the Kazan psychiatric hospital to the NKVD. This was how the world's first imprisoned mental hospital appeared in the USSR. The Kazan psychiatric prison is still one of the most terrible Chekist casemates.

But punitive psychiatry became most widespread after the dissolution of the Stalinist Gulag. Concentration camps were quickly replaced by mental hospitals, and ambulances began to ply the streets of villages and towns instead of the "black raven. The medical staff recruited by the punitive organs and the military-industrial complex, reinforced by former criminals, coped with their duties perfectly well. In 1961, the new criminal legislation providentially did not include an article punishing crimes committed with the use of psychiatry. And already in the mid-70's the population of the Empire of Evil found itself in the role of peculiar hostages. Now any citizen who did not please the authorities could be accused of insanity and imprisoned for any term in yellow prisons, with all the ensuing consequences. In 1983, the Soviet Society of Psychiatrists (SSP) was forced to withdraw from the WPA (World Psychiatric Association), otherwise it would have been expelled in disgrace for using psychiatry for political and punitive purposes.

In 1988, the Decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR adopted "Regulations on the conditions and order of psychiatric care," which provided for a number of positive changes in psychiatric practice. In 1989, the VPA was accepted again with the condition that Soviet psychiatrists would henceforth strictly fulfill the requirements of the above document and publicly acknowledge the abuses of psychiatry for political and other criminal purposes that occurred in the Soviet Union. Without blinking an eye, the official representatives of Soviet psychiatry not only admitted all the facts of the criminal use of psychiatry, but also swore to the leadership of the WPA that now Soviet psychiatry would fulfill all the requirements generally recognized by the world community and become an example for other states. But as you know, only the grave can change a humpback. In the Soviet Union, no one was going to reconstruct the system of psychiatry, and as a result, in 1992, the WPA decided to expel the VOP from its ranks. But the Soviet Union collapsed, and the VOP quickly changed its coloring, under the new name "Federation of Psychiatric Societies of the CIS", again became a member of the WPA.

In the seventies, the USSR Ministry of Health developed and implemented in medical institutions a document called "Interpretation of Mental Illnesses," according to which any Soviet person could be accused of insanity. For the same purpose, Professor Snezhnevsky developed the non-existent in nature "sluggish schizophrenia". And as a result, mental hospitals were filled with citizens who disagreed with the foreign and domestic policies of the communist state, or who dared to criticize their superiors or expose the crimes they had committed. According to estimates by independent psychiatrists and human rights activists, already in 1988 the USSR was one of the first in the world in terms of the number of persons registered as psychiatric patients.

In civilized countries, the victims of psychotronic influence are paid a fine: in the U.S. - $1.5 million, in Canada - $700,000, in Australia - $200,000. In the countries of the former Soviet Union, where, unlike the West, the victim is tortured with extreme cruelty, if a person declares about the psychotronic influence on him, the authorities immediately and forcibly put him in a mental hospital, where the monsters in white coats in addition to psychotronic torture will implement in respect of him the criminal medical, biological, pharmacological and other experiments. If before the intervention of the public in the cases of the repressed, psychiatrists, 70% collaborating with the special services and military-industrial complex, referred only to the medical incompetence of its representatives, now they also refer to the formulaic, without the motivation of the so-called "people's courts," which more resemble courts of medieval Inquisition or troika of 37.

Recently, psychiatrists have claimed that there are virtually no mentally healthy people in the former Soviet Union. Naturally the question arises: can the whole nation be inferior and is such a statement correct? If we take into account the psychotronic processing of the entire population, then it is certainly correct. Political scientists, sociologists and psychiatrists are trying to argue that the nation has become inferior because of the sharp change in the political and social situation in the country. This assertion is fundamentally absurd, and it does not take much work to refute it. It is enough to recall the statistics on mental illness after World War II, when the political, economic, and social situation in the country was far more tragic than the present one. However, the statistical figures at that time did not differ much from generally accepted world standards. Besides, before making such statements to venerable scientists and wordsmiths, one should know that man is not a weak broom, which can be easily broken or trampled, but a strong biological being, protected by nature and adapted to survive in any, even the most complex naturally formed monstrous situations. Independent and honest psychiatric researchers quite rightly claim that mental diseases - like schizophrenia in them begin to appear in infancy or childhood. And only a small percentage of the population may suffer from acquired mental illnesses, which are easily stabilized by modern pharmacological means. However, according to estimates by independent psychiatrists, there is not a single person in the former Soviet Union suffering from a chronic mental illness who has been treated in a psychiatric hospital. In a conversation with human rights activists, this information was confirmed by the chief psychiatrist of Russia. Although it is known that back in 1975, scientists-mengele of the All-Union Scientific Research Institute of General and Forensic Psychiatry named after S.N. Serbsky, which is a symbol of the Russian psychiatric society, were not able to treat those suffering from this disease. In the same way, it is known that back in 1975, the scientists of the All-Union Scientific Research Institute of General and Forensic Psychiatry named after Serbsky, a symbol of Soviet punitive psychiatry, invented and tested a revolutionary method of treatment of mental diseases on the prisoners of the Scientific Research Institute. For example, schizophrenia was cured in just one hour. The treatment was cheap and reliable. The unique invention was immediately classified. The average person, of course, wonders: Why? Because if it was necessary to publicize this invention, they would have to dissolve the entire Yellow Gulag and invent for millions of mentally healthy prisoners new Soviet psychiatric diseases such as Snezhnevsky's sluggish schizophrenia or "Paranoia of Struggle". To fool the public, the criminal authorities and psychiatrists even resort to the teachings of those psychiatrists whom they had not previously recognized. For example, to justify the rise of mental illness, they pull out the teachings of Italian psychiatrist Lambroso, who claimed that a person who rebels against the authorities or commits a criminal offense has a psychiatric illness. They cite as examples the non-existent insanities of entire nations. In the heat of adversarialism, in terms of veiling the crime, they sometimes reach the point of complete absurdity. For example, the chief psychiatrist in Moscow, Kozyrev, who is also the chief physician at the Kashchenko Psychiatric Hospital, is trying to carry out a life of his own. Kashchenko is trying to implement his theory of so-called psychoinduction, according to which psychiatric illnesses can be transmitted to others, like the flu or the common cold. And all this is happening against the background of the exposure of psychotronic warfare in the former Soviet Union.

REMNANTS OF REASON, IN THE NAME OF STOPPING THE BIROBOTIZED MADNESS

In 1990, at the 2nd International Conference on Human Rights in Leningrad, for the first time in the USSR, the international community received information from human rights defenders about the use of psychotronic weapons on a massive scale in the Empire of Evil. In 1991, at the CSCE Conference on the Human Dimension in Moscow, human rights organizations protested against the use of psychotronic weapons on civilians. At the time, resolutions were sent to the Soviet government demanding that laws prohibiting the use of psychotronic weapons on Soviet territory and the harshest penalties for their use be included in the USSR Constitution and criminal legislation. In their resolutions, human rights activists referred to Article 7 of the Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which prohibits any experiments on persons who have not given their free consent. And as a result, in 1992-93, identical articles appeared in the constitutions, which are still not enforced.

Also in 1991, in Paris, scientists from 20 countries, including the former Soviet Union, signed an international convention banning the use of psychotronic weapons for secret purposes or for purposes beyond ethics.

On April 21, 1995 in Kiev, the Public Council for Planetary Human Security adopted an appeal entitled "To the Remnants of Reason for an End to "Birobotic Madness". This statement was made by the initiative group, headed by the President of Chernobyl Fund of Gratitude A. Bazhan and the Vice-President of the League of the independent scientists of Ukraine, doctor of technical sciences V. Sedletsky. This statement reads: "In order to seize the world power the special services of "superpowers" have developed and already implemented an infernal project of biorobotization of the planet's population. Projects like "Afghan Echo", "Savior", "Warning" and others are closely linked with the 100-km Chernobyl zone, which is essentially a synchronous system - a recombination laser ("Hurricane Wednesday"). It is a system by which the behavioral functions of both individual and collective minds can be controlled. On June 25, 1995 at the 2-nd International Scientific-Technical Conference "Planetary Safety of Man" in Kiev there was taken the following decision - "To demand from the Government to introduce into the legislation of Ukraine the criminal liability for the use of psychotronic, psychotropic and other kinds of psychophysical influence on man. These technologies represent a new generation of mass destruction weapons and should be the subject of special attention of the international community. The Kiev documents were sent to the President of Ukraine, the UN, NATO, and the mass media.

In 1991, five Rostov scientists in an open letter to Presidents Gorbachev and Yeltsin demanded an immediate ban on psychotronic weapons and offered their services in creating technical systems of protection against their damaging factors.

In 1995 the Union "Shield" conducted an independent examination, which found the following: 1. Experiments on human beings in the USSR began a very long time ago, but according to official data since 1977, and by now they have become quite widespread. 2. Microwave irradiation, especially prolonged, leads to serious damage to human health and suppresses his will (turns into biorobots). 3. With appropriate combinations of frequency, focusing and power of radiation is possible various negative effects on the human body.

The former Soviet Union is one of the leading countries in the world in conducting uncontrolled biomedical and other experiments on people and animals, which contradicts the Tokyo Declaration of the World Medical Association and the principles of medical ethics approved by the UN General Assembly in 1992.

In 1992 renowned scientists A. Bayev, O. Gizenko, B. Petrovsky, P. Simonov, B. Yudin and others called for immediate placing experiments on humans and animals under strict ethical control. The Hague International Convention of 1997 prohibits the use of weapons that cause particularly severe suffering to humans. UN Assembly Resolutions 2444/XXII and 2675/XXV prohibit any military operations against civilians.

The Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, adopted by the UN General Assembly on 10 December 1984, states: "No law enforcement official may carry out, instigate or tolerate any act which constitutes torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, nor may any law enforcement official invoke superior orders or other exceptional circumstances, as with

In 1968, the creators of the fifth generation computer with artificial intelligence, aware of the danger to humanity that their invention posed, signed a declaration stating that no one had the right to use computers as a tool to manipulate people or to turn computerization against humanity.

In the same year, the UN General Assembly adopted a resolution on the protection of the human person and physical and intellectual integrity in the light of advances in biology, medicine and biochemistry.

THE PLAN OF THE KPCC AND THE KGB: PSYCHOTRONIC HOLGOTHA

According to publications in the official press, television revelations of former party functionaries and simple logical analysis, we can conclude that the former USSR has long been living according to the plan of the Central Committee of the CPSU and KGB -

"Psychotronic Golgotha" - developed before perestroika. Its initial aim was to show the population the pseudo-democracy, pseudo-capitalism, and then to return to the socialistic state structure, using its support and artificially causing discontent of the main mass of zombified population, probably to go the way of China. If these options did not pass, then the former Soviet Union had to go on capitalist rails.

The need for such a plan, the Communists firmly believed, was inevitable because the imperfect Soviet economic system could no longer compete with the West. And the arms race required enormous expenditures. Virtually the entire state worked for the war. In addition, huge gaps appeared in the Iron Curtain, and information about how a free man could live began to flow into the evil empire.

But probably the developers of the monstrous plan did not quite take into account that in the process of its implementation, its creators and executors may have significant differences, because the CPSU Central Committee consists of clans, which will pursue their own, inherent only to them political goals.

YOUR BRAIN, YOUR PERSONAL AND INTIMATE LIFE ARE UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE SECRET SERVICES

Comfascists and special services, using psychotronic weapons, artificially create a criminogenic state for the transition period. Gangster formations are artificially created and the drug business flourishes. This period is used by the Comfascists to enrich themselves and launder their dirty capital, while the artificially created gangster structures and formations, equipped with some elements of psychotronic weapons, for a long time will serve as a cover for the global psychotronic system, which is the main military potential of the future military-police state. At present the intelligence services have all the necessary means for instant localization of any criminal groups and formations, exposure and suppression of any crime. To become convinced of this it is enough to recall statements of some high-ranking KGB officials who claimed that the entire territory of the former Soviet Union is divided into squares, each square is controlled electronically, an electronic dossier is collected on each citizen of the former USSR, not a single KGB officer since 1977 has used a single bullet, within one hour the KGB can detect and neutralize any criminal group.

A clear example of the uniqueness of the KGB's use of psychotronic weapons is the series of bloodless operations to free hostages. These operations were always conducted at the highest level. Even in the first days of negotiations, hardened criminals, who had previously carefully planned hostage-taking, suddenly became childishly naive and began bargaining with the Chekists, demanding vodka and drugs in exchange for the release of several hostages. This peculiar behavior of the criminals defied all rational logic and provoked several natural questions. Didn't the criminals really understand that security officers could slip sleeping pills into the alcohol and give them a special drug that would paralyze their will instead of the desired drug? When they were working on the hostage-taking plan did they not take into account and analyze the previous failures connected with their captures? Having psychotronic weapons, security officers could easily, quietly and very quickly locate the criminals, but it would be noticeable and psychotronic weapons are not subject to declassification. Vodka and drugs were the usual cover-ups, which in the case of the danger of exposing the psychotronic treatment of criminals, could always be passed off as a chemically fueled option. But even in this case the question of the naivety of the terrorists arises. To dot all the "I"s it is enough to remember the recent past of our country, when the Chekists used to blow up bridges, disable equipment, set schools and orphanages on fire to justify their activities and terror and artificially create an image of the enemy, subsequently blaming some cargo handlers at a Far Eastern port for all these horrible crimes.

Today's "fighters" of the invisible front, remain faithful followers of the ideas of their predecessors. Only in contrast to them, they are equipped with modern superweapons that allow to commit crimes and sabotage with the hands of others, and then quickly neutralize artificially created "master" criminals, saboteurs and spies. Analyzing the above facts it can be stated that almost all unsuccessful attempts to take hostages and hijack airplanes were carefully planned in the analytical departments of the KGB-FSK-FSB. The command of "Alfa" repeatedly made a statement that their unit could change the political situation in the country in just one day. When asked by journalists: "How do they manage to do all this?" The Chekists unequivocally answered: "With skill..."

Reference: Remote control of people, covert electronic surveillance, murder, fabrication of criminal cases, provocation, falsification, disinformation, bugging of telephone conversations, wiretapping of correspondence or complete blockage of mail and phones - this is by no means a complete list of crimes of yesterday and today's KGB. Modern computer systems, psychotronic equipment, television, electronics, laser devices, artificial satellites and other achievements of scientific and technological progress, have long ago become a weapon of massive attack on civil and political human rights. The development of computer technology has made it possible to store, accumulate and distribute personal files on millions of citizens. Penetration into the homes and personal lives of citizens is facilitated these days by the most modern scientific and technological advances. Electronic and laser equipment makes it possible to remotely eavesdrop on telephone conversations and conversations taking place in any room. Infrared equipment allows remote surveillance through an opaque wall. Modern sound-catching and signaling apparatus allows for remote intrusion into almost any place where a person is, it allows you to monitor his every word, his every movement. Psychotronic apparatus makes it possible to remotely not only control a person, but also influence his psychophysical activity, control his behavior. Reckless intrusion into private life of citizens, has long been the norm in totalitarian and post-totalitarian system. A person living in the former Soviet Union can nowhere be sure that he is alone, that the security services do not control his behavior and do not control his thinking. To disperse mass demonstrations and demonstrations, the special services already use special mobile units with ultrasonic and infrared equipment. The use of such units causes panic fear, loss of orientation, severe headaches, heart attacks, etc.

There is no doubt that the president is being processed by psychotronic weapons, this fact should alert the public, because he, being under the influence of the devil's weapon, can give power to his masters from Lubyanka against his will.

CUSTOMERS AND MANUFACTURERS

In the 1970s and 1980s, information began to appear in the Soviet press about the development of psychotronic weapons in some countries and their use on the population in order to control society. In the pages of this press, our political scientists compared pure capitalist cannibalism with the Nazis' atrocities in World War II. They argued that the modern "Mengeles" were free of remorse and outdated morality by their governments, and that modern "superhumans" could violate all laws of human morality and international law without fear of responsibility. On the pages of their books, echoing the criminal communist governments and leaders of the ruling Communist Party, with their hypocrisy and pharisaism, they denied all accusations of international terrorism, war crimes, non-compliance with international treaties, blatant violations of basic human rights to the Soviet Union. But at the beginning of the 1990s, the iron curtain was lifted, and the "boomerang" thrown over the "bump" returned with terrible force to its master. The world learned about the monstrous crimes committed by the Communists against their own people, learned the terrible statistics. The veil of secrecy regarding the creation of domestic psychotronic weapons and their application to the population was lifted.

However, some scientists directly connected with the development of psychotronic weapons and some political scientists still spread the information that the psychotronic war against the population of the former USSR is waged by the West and mafia structures, rather than the CPSU and KGB. If we accept this information as reality, then why is the government silent and the special services inactive, and how can we refute the obvious facts of the production of such weapons in our country and their mass use?

According to declassified and published documents the creation of domestic psychotronic weapons goes back to the distant 20s. In 1924 the OGPU special department officer biologist G. Barchenko together with the Brain Institute, headed by Academician V. Bekhterev, by order of F. Dzerzhinsky planned in early 1925 to lead an expedition to Tibet in order to learn the Tibetan magic, which could be used to control the behavior of the Soviet people. The visa signed by G. Chicherin was already ready, but unexpectedly Yagoda canceled the expedition. It turns out G. Barchenko was just a cover for another expedition, led by the same special unit member artist N. Roerich, which was already moving deep into Tibet on the orders of Dzerzhinsky. Roerich not only successfully completed the task, but also brought to the Lubyanka eight monks, experts in Tibetan magic, elements of which later formed the basis of creation of psychotronic weapons. In 1937 mass shootings and repressions began. Stalin's Gulag for "enemies of the people" was created. Those under investigation thoroughly incriminated themselves for committing grave crimes against the state. At this time the Western press was full of articles about the influence of hypnosis, Tibetan powders, etc. on the accused. According to these same documents, Roerich was responsible for the repression and deaths of so many people. Academician V. Bekhterev, Dzerzhinsky's daughter M. Talce and associate professor D. Luntz participated in creation of the first prototypes of psychotronic weapons. There is information that Academician I. Pavlov worked on the creation of psychotronic weapons.

After the end of World War II, the Soviet military and special services, having obtained the secret documents of the Third Reich in the field of psychotronic weapons, began to work intensively on its improvement.

In the 1940s, in the Vladimir region, under the guise of an ordinary "sharashka", the Bioradiological Research Institute was created, which was engaged in the development of psychotronic weapons. Secret laboratories with the same focus were created in the Research Institute of Nuclear Physics, whose director was Academician I. Kurchatov.

In the 1950s, reports began to appear in the Soviet press about the harmful effects of ionizing radioactive radiation, in particular radioactive isotopes, and the possibility of using them to disrupt human life. Newspapers reported on the use of radiation by ultrasound and microwaves.

In the 60s, there were serious notes about the possibility of using ultrashort radio waves to affect humans.

In 1967, research in the field of psychotronics begins in Saratov. For the experiment they choose a group of adolescents, who almost all die. And only one is kept alive and used for further experiments in a global program, which involves changing the social and role functions of people. The Saratov zombie makes it to Moscow in the eighties, where he learns that the experiment primarily involves ten cities in the USSR with a developed defense industry and that human testing is coordinated with a number of authorities and the government.

In the seventies, small publications appeared in the Western press about the KGB's use of radioactive isotope irradiation against undesirable persons, leading to severe consequences. When attempts were made to get these people investigated, they were accused of insanity.

And finally, in the 80's for the first time in the Soviet press began to appear publications exposing customers and manufacturers of domestic psychotronic weapons. One of the first on the list of psychotronic weapons developers was the Institute of Material Science Problems of the Ukrainian SSR Academy of Sciences, headed by Academician Trefilov. The head firm in the country engaged in the development of unconventional fields is the ISTC "Vent"; previously this office was called the Center of Unconventional Technologies at the CCSTC of the USSR. According to Akimov, the director of this center, the cost of psychotronic weapons projects of the USSR Ministry of Defense alone was 23 million rubles. The main areas of research of the center are: 1. Remote biomedical and biological effects on troops and enemy population by spinor-torsion emitters. 2. Remote psychophysical influence on troops and population with spinor-torsion radiators. 3. Medical and biological protection of troops and population from exposure to spinor-torsion emitters. In the end 30 billion rubles have been spent to create psychotronic weapons. Developers and customers inform the representatives of the KGB and the USSR Ministry of Defense that the radiation of tested spinor-torsion generators did not weaken with increasing distance from the irradiated object, that it was not an obstacle for a pile of reinforced concrete houses and buildings and that it could be directed to any person or a large group of people, it was enough to have pictures of future victims or to mark on the map the point, town or village. With the help of deadly beams it is possible to get any information about a given object, and it is possible to make the selected victim sick, disabled, insane, torture and torture him at a distance, it is possible to kill him, but this or that agency wishes.

The famous ANT was not exempt from orders for psychotronic weapons. ANT was encouraged to incorporate a couple of teams of people into its structure. In particular, there was a division conducting research in some curious areas. For example, sensorics, the biofield, unconventional mathematics. The research was funded by the ANT, although the results became the domain of another organization. When the tank scandal broke out in which predsovmina N. Ryzhkov was involved, who had previously signed official documents for the development of the latest modifications of psychotronic weapons, this department quietly withdrew and dissolved.

Psychotronic generators have long been coming off the assembly line of the Octava plant located in Kiev. What are psychotronic generators? This is electron-beam equipment, which causes the effect of controlled control in the human body. In particular, it affects the right and left hemispheres of the brain.

A list of studies in the field of psychotronics has been published. From the column "level of readiness" one can learn about the real-world application of diabolical programs, which, according to the author, should make people's hair stand on end. Here are just a few of them: 8.5. Mental modulators. Used in real-life situations. 8.10. radio voice (inner voice). A translator of thoughts and action patterns. Applicable in real conditions. 8.11. Gene Destructor. Applied in real environment. 8.15. Psychogenerators, based on sympathetic magic principles. Applicable under real conditions. 9.6. Informational duplication of the personality. It is applied in real conditions.

In 1989, despite the incessant psychotron terror, a human rights movement was created in the former Soviet Union to fight this horrific crime of the century.

In opposition to the movement, the authorities and special services unleashed the full force of the long-established and well-established repressive system of the former Empire of Evil on the defenseless and small human rights organizations. They brutally suppress mass protests, kill human rights defenders and their relatives, artificially create severe internal diseases for them, discredit human rights organizations and their leaders, send the most active ones to prisons and mental hospitals, block mail and phones, create obstacles for the creation and registration of All-Russian and International organizations, obtain financial assistance from banks and commercial structures, which partially finance the warring clans, military-industrial complex, KGB-FSB. Law enforcement agencies refuse to conduct forensic examinations of household and other devices rendered inoperable by psychotronic weapon components. Sanitary and epidemiological stations refuse to conduct examinations in the apartments of victims of psychotronic weapons, citing their incompetence and poor technical equipment. Research institutes demand huge sums of money to conduct expert examinations. Medical doctors refuse to record obvious traces of psychotron terror, to issue outpatient cards and medical reports, and deprive victims of medical care in clinics and hospitals. The special services, using their agents and zombified victims, suppress activity and ruin newly created human rights organizations. Many victims with direct evidence of the use of psychotronic weapons on them, individually and collectively, appealed to presidents, governments and other public authorities which are supposed to protect the legitimate rights, interests and safety of citizens by the nature of their activities. But presidents, governments and authorities of the former Soviet Union, despite the mass disclosure of the psychotronic warfare in the press, are still getting off with either absurd replies or persistent silence, or repressions, which once again confirms their involvement in the monstrous crime and implementation of the state policy of domestic terrorism.

CRAZY WATER

In turn, the zombified population perceives the information about psychotronic warfare with a smile or irony, presenting the psychotronic weapon as a slingshot with a badly stretched rubber band, rather than as a terrible and monstrous weapon of mass enslavement and destruction. Here it would be appropriate to recall an ancient Sufi legend, according to which people in one village drank water from the same well and were insane. Only one man did not drink and was normal. He tried to convince others not to do it either, but his fellow villagers didn't understand him. They mocked him, threw stones at him. Finally, he could not stand it and drank the crazy water himself, after which he became like everyone else, i.e. crazy. Today's situation looks approximately the same. The only difference is that the ancient man was alone, while today millions of people scream about the psychotronic enslavement and destruction of the population, but their cries and warnings hang in the air and truly remain the voice of the crying in the wilderness.

THE ELECTRONIC GOD PUNISHES AND PARDONS HIS DISOBEDIENT CHILDREN

Many of the victims of the psychotronic terror tried to find salvation in the churches, hoping for the protection of the Almighty. But those who sit behind the controls of the psychotronic weapons do not believe in God. Which once again confirms that the criminals are of communist origin. In churches, victims are tortured with particular cruelty, mocked and mocked at their faith, thereby desecrating the holy feelings of hundreds of millions of believers. The end of the 20th century the Bible calls the end of the world. The Indian Vedas state that the end of the world will come with man's creation of mind-transmitting weapons. It should be understood that not some unknown force will destroy humanity, but man himself will destroy life on earth.

The transformation of the population into a slave society for several decades was carried out through the media and from ground psychotronic stations in conjunction with ideologized education with closed borders and closed external sources of information. Communist slogans and symbols on buildings, architecture and books, fictitious heroes-fanatics and pagan worship of leaders with invented biographies, also contributed to perverting the consciousness of the population and zombifying it. The communists surpassed even the pharaohs of ancient Egypt in this matter by installing a mausoleum with a leader's mummy in the country's main square, among the tombs of executioners. In the late 60's, early 70's, the Communists put psychotronic stations into space. Since then the electronic God punishes and pardons his rebellious children.

QUIETLY SNEAKING TO POWER, ACCORDING TO THE SCRIPT OF THE PUPPET THEATER OF OBRAZTSOV

The comfascists, armed with psychotronic weapons, begin to occupy key positions in the country without much difficulty. Everything is provided for. The Communa passes laws to return to the past. The Yellow Gulag works at full capacity. New yellow prisons are opened, ready to accept all dissenting and zombified citizens. The president, treated with psychotronic weapons and surrounded by a comfascist clique, is waiting for the denouement. The Kremlin rulers, mostly composed of political crooks who have stolen a lot of money, cede seats of power to their comrades-in-arms from Staraya Square and the Lubyanka, who are ready to empty their pockets at any moment, bloody Party cards. The future leaders and teachers of enslaved peoples sing nightingale songs about the beautiful communist past and an equally beautiful future. They swear with their lives and deaths that after they came to power, and they never went anywhere, to quickly end crime, capitalism and unemployment, to make everyone equal and happy. Psychotronic censorship sifts through the psychotronic sieve all publications, keeping a watchful eye to ensure that secret information about super-weapons and their use on the population does not get into the press. Communist authorities put obstacles and disrupt mass protests to expose and stop the psychotronic war. Psychotronic terrorists destroy the victims.

Sabotage, lawlessness, delayed payment of pensions and wages, high prices, beggars in subways and city streets, wide gap between rich and poor, unemployment, crime, local regional wars and other artificially created social upheavals, along with psychotronic manipulation of population, were to anger people and return them to communist ideals. And the coming to power of any varieties of communist persuasion would inevitably lead to the restoration of the communist regime, to its worst times and would serve as the beginning of the unification of the former Soviet Union into a single military-police state, controlled by psychotronic weapons.

The brainwashed and brainwashed population is a set of puppets, controlled by puppeteers, who skillfully pull the levers and press the buttons on the psychotronic weapon control panels, leading them to one or the other extreme point, depending on the political and geopolitical goals set for them.

The brainwashed and brainwashed population, which lost millions of lives during a monstrous experiment and was placed in a hopeless situation, is obediently moving along a pre-planned psychotronic corridor towards new tragedies, hardships and trials.

YOU CAN'T HIDE THE TRUTH IN A BAG

At present, the President of the Russian Federation has imposed a strict ban on the dissemination of information concerning the secret activities of the Ministry of Defense and special services. The presidential administration explains this prohibition by the necessary measures to prevent the leak of secret information to the West and to the so-called mafia structures. Such a presidential decision would have been certainly correct if Russia had been a constitutional state, where military and special services were firmly controlled by a democratic parliament and public institutions. But at the moment the former Evil Empire, with its center in the Russian Federation, is a post-communist space, where all human rights are trampled, all national and international legal norms are rudely ignored, and comfascists and special services openly use psychotronic and other types of modern exotic weapons against the population for political purposes. According to the data of human rights organizations and political parties after the new KGB-FSB chief was appointed /1996/, this agency is fully secret and is engaged in the former terrorist activities (materials of the conference "KGB - yesterday, today, tomorrow"). The West does not need informants, because it has exhaustive information related to the defense capabilities of the former Soviet Union. Mafia structures were artificially created by security services to disguise their criminal activity. The population for more than 30 years has been psychotronically treated. Consequently, the president's ban is intended to disguise the crime and avoid fair retribution.

For several years now, the post-Communist space, with its multitude of states located on its territory, has been reminiscent of a steam locomotive rushing at full speed through a tunnel that has no second track to turn sideways and avoid collision with a locomotive that may have already come out from the opposite side.

In the summer of 1987, I first went to the central square of Novosibirsk with a poster. My poster said that the CPSU and the KGB were waging a secret undeclared bio-energetic war against their people. At the time, psychotronic weapons were called bioenergetic weapons by experts. The punitive bodies were doing everything possible to remove me from the square. They managed to do it only by using psychotronic weapons against me. In their threats, the KGB and Interior Ministry warned me that if I did it again, they would put me in a mental hospital or put me in the dock for eternity. Ignoring the threats and the monstrous psychotronic terror, I continued to take to the streets and distribute leaflets. Not even two weeks after the first action, dozens of people subjected to psychotronic terror began coming to my home. On September 10, 1987 in Novosibirsk, the Committee for the Protection of the Population from Bioenergetic Terror (NKZNBТ) was created. The Committee began its activity by publishing the samizdat magazine "Golgotha". This was the first human rights organization in the Soviet Union to expose the horrendous crime of the century, and the journal "Golgotha" was the first publication to cover this topic. A little later, identical organizations were established in Moscow and then in St. Petersburg. In 1988 the organization was renamed the Committee for the Protection of the Population from Bioelectronic Terror. But already at the end of that year a new terminology appeared in special literature, and again the name was changed. In 1989 the Committee was renamed the Anti-Psychotronic Human Rights Center "ZOMBI" (APHRC) by the decision of the APHRC activists. In 1991 the Novosibirsk organization became a member of the Moscow-based human rights organization "Union for the Fight for Human Rights" (UFHR). However, due to the horrendous psychotron terror and criminal actions of the special services, all of the aforementioned organizations failed to function properly. Two months after the creation of the Novosibirsk organization, the KGB system, together with the Ministry of Internal Affairs, carried out their threats, repressing me to the local mental hospital, where the Mengeli in white coats openly conducted criminal medical-biological and psychotronic experiments on me. In 1991 the Novosibirsk organization created the USSR's first self-published newspaper "KGB Secrets", exposing the criminal activities of the KGB and CPSU, which used psychotronic weapons against the population. The terrorists took revenge for every line they wrote and every newspaper they sold. Already at that time I assumed that the KGB would not allow the newspaper to be published for a long time. And indeed, after putting out a few issues, the publisher (the paper was being published with his money) was reprogrammed to accuse the CIA and to defend the KGB and the CPSU. Naturally, after this metamorphosis, our roads diverged. In 1991, at the international seminar "Human Rights Guarantee Mechanisms" of the CSCE Human Dimension Implementation Meeting in Moscow, it was decided to create a public organization forbidding the use of psychotronic and other identical weapons against the population. In 1993, Professor Boris L. Nazarov, President of the Information Center for Human Rights (ICHR), member of the Public Chamber under the President of the Russian Federation, advisor to the Constitutional Court of the Russian Federation, Doctor of Law, whom I had known since 1990, and Moscow human rights activists invited me to Moscow to participate in creating a powerful human rights movement against the problem of psychotron genocide. In 1994, pursuant to the decisions of the CSCE Moscow Conference, the Moscow Chapter of the Information Center for Human Rights (MCHR) was established on the basis of the Center for Human Rights: Protection of Citizens from Psychotron Terrorism. The Moscow citizens elected me as its chairman. By agreement with the Ministry of Justice, the MO ICHR and its chairman were granted legal status, and by agreement with the ICHR and its board, the MO ICHR became an independent public organization with broad rights and powers.

During the twelve years of its existence, the human rights movement has held more than a hundred protests and informational meetings with the population. More than two hundred interviews have been given to the media. More than 300 articles and essays have been published by members of the movement, more than thirty television films have been shown, and more than twenty programs have been broadcast on the radio. Human rights activists took part in more than a hundred conferences, congresses and seminars. More than three million leaflets were distributed in cities and towns. The following self-published editions were released: "Golgotha" magazine, "Secret of the KGB" newspaper and a collection. Proposals for deputies of State Duma of the Russian Federation were prepared, containing key positions, contributing to quick passing of the law. Fifteen people, victims of psychotronic repressions, were released from mental hospitals. More than five thousand copies of the "Law on Psychiatric Assistance to the Population and Guarantees of Citizens' Rights in Providing Psychiatric Assistance" were distributed to psych hospitals. One court case was won. More than two hundred appeals, statements, open letters and protests were sent to top officials in Russia and the former Soviet Union countries. Branches have been set up in Novosibirsk, Tomsk, Pskov, Arkhangelsk, Ulyanovsk, Kursk, Yaroslavl, Ufa, Kazan, Tashkent, Kiev and the United States. The total number of the human rights movement is over four hundred people. Among them: scientists, lawyers, writers, journalists, artists, military, servicemen, workers and students. The national composition is diverse: Russians, Belarusians, Ukrainians, Tatars, Bashkirs, Chuvashes, Jews, and the peoples of Central Asia, the Caucasus and the Baltic countries. The human rights movement includes leaders of political parties, public organizations, and religious communities of the Orthodox Church. Unfortunately, to this day these articles remain inactive, despite resolutions passed by the Supreme Soviet and the State Duma, which stipulate that the articles of the constitutions shall be directly applicable and binding upon all state and federal officials. Not only that, but by failing to take any measures to implement these articles, the state itself is violating its basic law by carrying out illegal actions against those individuals who claim to have conducted any criminal experiments on them.

At present, when the crime is practically exposed, the authorities and special services, in order to prevent the spread of information about the monstrous crime, eliminate the victims and avoid fair retribution, have openly proceeded to liquidate the MO ICHR. After disrupting the May 1997 Lubyanka picket and destroying with psychotronic weapons Professor B.L. Nazarov, the President of ICHR, they deprived the MO ICHR of the premises and all means for its functioning. They completely blocked my mail and telephones, prohibited publishing my articles and interviews on radio and TV, giving this opportunity to those with a communist past, who belittle the power and scale of psychotronic weapons, who deny political goals and participation of state agencies and special services in the war. Using psychotronic weapons and their agents, they began to disintegrate and discredit the human rights movement by creating parallel organizations of zombified persons and persons with obvious mental deviations. Using the absence of an office space they turned a gathering place for victims of psychotronic weapons and support groups into a kind of a testing ground for testing special technologies intended to destroy political parties and public organizations undesirable to the future regime, checking information received remotely through direct communication with their victims and recording organization members on mini-recording equipment. They began a psychiatric hunt for anyone who participated in protests or spoke about psychotronic weapons and their use on the population. Using the media, increased duping of the population with propaganda of psychic, poltergeist, the coming of the Antichrist, extraterrestrials and other fairy tale-fantastical devilry. After the death of B.L. Nazarov, I was almost immediately deprived of a stable place to live in Moscow and the minimal means for my existence.

By offering readers an abridged version of the book "Psychotron Calvary," my purpose was to draw the attention of the public of the former Soviet Union and the international community to the monstrous and blatant crime that threatens at any moment to grow into a global disaster that threatens life on Earth.

Readers should consider the information in the book not as fiction or phantasmagoria, but as a real danger that threatens the life and health of both each individual and the entire population, as the most horrific tragedy of our long-suffering country.

Today psychotronic warfare is already recognized de facto, the day when it will be recognized de jure is not far off.

The book is a warning to the millions of people who are openly or secretly being turned into psychotronic slaves to create a society run by an elite armed with monstrous weapons of mass suppression, enslavement and annihilation.

An abridged version of the book "Psychotronic Golgotha" I wrote for more than two years under the monstrous psychophysical terror of the KGB system. As a result, terrorists significantly damaged my health, committed two unpunished criminal offenses against me, and my loved ones suffered. More than twenty times the terrorists disabled my typewriter and once my computer. Remote damage to dictaphones and photo equipment prevented qualified and high quality interviews with specialists and scientists. Distant damage to photographic equipment and photocopying equipment did not allow high quality production of covers and illustrations. Passport theft made it difficult to enter the Russian State Duma, government agencies and foreign representations to meet with deputies, political party leaders, officials and representatives of foreign countries. Lack of money made it impossible to pay for printing services. Endless migrating through unfamiliar Moscow apartments, along artificially created psychotronic corridor took time, frustrated preparation of necessary materials, complicated everyday routine and in all cases was associated with certain risks. These and many other artificially created negative circumstances and problems made it impossible to publish the book in a shorter period of time.

*Chairman of the Moscow branch of Information Center for Human Rights, direction:
Protection of citizens from psychotronic terrorism
N.I. Anisimov*

During the supposed completion of the diskettes, the first publisher unexpectedly not only refused to continue the work and comply with the agreements previously made, but also admitted that he had done nothing all along, but had simply led us astray for a year and a half in order to save his journalist friend from trial, who had composed and published in the newspaper one of the first secret services' libels discrediting the human rights movement. The second publisher also unexpectedly refused to honor the agreements made earlier, citing defective printing equipment. Subsequently, all attempts to engage book publishers also ended in failure. The KGB-FSB, armed with the devil's weapon, preceded our visits and negotiations with them ended in refusal. These and many other artificially created circumstances do not allow me to publish the book as a whole at present and I was forced to break it into parts: "Psychotron Golgotha", "Materials for the International Tribunal", "Struggle", "Only facts", "Interviews, opinions, publications". But even these could not be published for quite a long time. One of the publishers, a veteran journalist, after holding the material for more than two weeks and giving it the highest rating, offered to co-author it. Having received a refusal, immediately stopped all contact with me. A second attempt to quickly publish them in one of the human rights organizations also ended in failure. To the great surprise of the computer specialists, the computer did not scan the typewritten text, and the computer layout produced there was erased by someone, and the text was stolen. Everyone involved in the initial typing on the floppy disk was brutally treated with psychotronic weapons, remotely controlling the computers and even incapacitating them.

I consider exposing and stopping this monstrous crime a matter of national concern, so I leave my publications open to any serious information regarding psychotronic or other identical weapons and special means. The final disclosure requires data on the creation and use of psychotechnological weapons, the latest advances in science and technology, the latest weapons, demographic and other statistics. Confidentiality of the source of information I guarantee.

HUMANE WEAPONS ARE THE PLAGUE OF THE 20TH CENTURY

Psychotronic weapons are one of the types of so-called "non-lethal" weapons. Its invisible components can kill at a distance, simulate or create any chronic disease, make a person a criminal or insane, create air, railroad or automobile disaster, in seconds to destroy a capital structure, create or provoke any climatic disasters, control the most complex device or mechanism. To control the behavior of people, of any biological object, to change the worldview of the population.

Synopsis: Non-lethal weapons are of four types. The first type incapacitates weapons, military equipment and structures by changing the molecular structure of materials, reducing their strength, changing their physical and chemical properties, as well as disabling any equipment or any mechanisms, disrupting the functioning of radioelectronic means. The second type incapacitates only living force, causing disturbances in the psyche of the enemy, coordination of movement, muscle tone, changes in the functioning of various body systems, including cardiovascular and visual apparatus. Radios capable of putting large contingents of enemy troops to sleep and coherent optics capable of projecting monstrous holographic images in the atmosphere demoralizing enemy soldiers are used. Holographic images of "death with a scythe" and armada of "UFOs", artificially created purple-red sunsets and the appearance of the moon during the day, or artificially creating adverse climatic conditions in the areas where military operations are taking place, are designed to psychologically process the enemy and create panic. In overdose these exposures cause organ injuries that cannot be cured, mental disorders that cannot be cured, deformities and disabilities. The third type includes psychotronic weapons. The fourth type is based on anti-gravity technology. The principle of the gravitational type of non-lethal weapons is that any object can be artificially deprived of the natural gravity of the Earth and become an obedient toy in the hands of operators, sitting at the control panels of gravitational weapons. Military equipment based on antigravity technology is extremely maneuverable and invulnerable to any modern and exotic weapons. The first and second types of non-lethal weapons have not been fully declassified, while the third and fourth are still officially considered classified.

More than 20 years ago, when the first secret research on non-lethal weapons began, governments and intelligence agencies took care to ensure that in the event of even minimal declassification, information about this kind of research would be distorted or obscured and would not alert the international public. Such a moment has now arrived. And the military scientists associated with its developments, fulfilling secret directives, are trying to present its types as almost a boon to humanity. Affectionately calling their behemoth a non-lethal, bloodless weapon or a humane bomb. In doing so, they try to pass themselves off as honest, infallible citizens, claiming universal respect and honor. This false and supremely cynical information, with the easy input of some media, in many cases achieves its purpose, is fixed in the minds of uninitiated citizens and serves as a preventive protection for criminals who use this type of weapon on a massive scale on the population. Due to this and a host of other circumstances, today non-lethal weapons are not subject to any of the international conventions that would prohibit the development, stockpiling and use of this type of weapon.

To ensure safety, psychotronic technologies have two main types of protection - the so-called "alibi". The first type of protection is that overt and combined exposure is carried out according to the principle of a studied mental illness clinic. Usually this type of protection is engaged by terrorists in the case when the victim contacts law enforcement agencies and medics. As a rule, after communication with them, the victim ends up in a mental hospital, from which he or she is permanently insane and must be registered as mentally ill. The second type of protection lies in the ability of weapons to instantly connect to any person who came into contact with the victim, followed by a change in his thinking and behavior. As a result of engaging this type of protection officials, if they are not even connected with the crime, will not correctly and logically perceive the information they receive from the person under test. In order to provide a more reliable "alibi" and to implement a certain program, the victim is pre-processed in a covert way. In this case, it is necessary to make a decision on the way to the beginning of the next stage of the process, and to make a decision on the way to the end of the next stage of the process, and to make a decision on the way to the end of the next stage of the process.

When exercising influence and terror, criminals in almost all cases adhere to the basic rule - all artificially created situations must have a cause and an effect, even if the artificially created cause looks absurd and the effect unnatural.

There are three stages of psychoprogramming. The first stage is control of the brain. The second stage is control of the person's psychophysical activity. And the third stage is the destruction of the subject. The third stage is resorted to by terrorists in the following cases: danger of exposure, exhaustion, intimidation, artificial stabilization of the population. Extermination can be carried out by both traditional and non-traditional methods.

All domestic psychotronic programs are codenamed "zombies". But before the term "zombie" meant a human biorobot, whose brain was hard-coded with drugs and special psychological effects, in the modern interpretation "zombie" means an abbreviation that stands for: a classified object of medical and biological research. Why classified? Because as soon as an experimental person tells others about what is happening to him, all the above-mentioned types of protection come into play. A test subject, being under control and management of his psyche, outwardly does not differ much from ordinary people. Psychotronic terrorists are vigilant to ensure that he remains classified until death.

Psychotronic weapons are fundamentally different from other types of weapons. If the Kalashnikov assault rifle could be invented, tested and improved in a shooting gallery, the development of psychotronic weapons constantly requires human donors. Any person can become a donor, if the terrorists need his intellect and physical data. Selection of donors is carried out according to the following principle. It is known that human society consists of certain groups with similar intelligence and psychological type. Each person is a representative of such groups. Having chosen donors for open psychoprogramming and having worked up psychotechnologies on them, it is possible to secretly control the behavior of all groups, and consequently the entire society as a whole.

But psychotronic weapons have long since passed the stage of experiments. It has turned into a monstrous weapon of mass suppression, enslavement and destruction.

Psychotronic weapons are referred to by the military as superweapons, superweapons, weapons of the fifth generation.

Synopsis: A secret undeclared psychotronic war of the communist regime and its progeny against its peoples has been going on in the former USSR for more than 30 years. At present there are more than one million victims of open psychotronic terror and psychotronic influence in the lists of state agencies, human rights organizations and in the media.

The victims are usually gifted people who are not loyal to the regime, members of military units, athletes, prisoners of prisons and concentration camps, persons registered in dispensaries, all prisoners of mental hospitals without exception, as well as the population in free behavior. To disguise the crime and to shift the responsibility on the USA and mafia structures, open psychotronic terror is exposed to some part of communists and employees of special services.

Psychotronic terror, openly carried out against the chosen victim, is carried out every second, around the clock for many years, on the principle of executioners' activities in medieval torture chambers and "work" of VChK-KGB investigators in the torture chambers of the Communist guards in the worst years of the history of our long-suffering country. The modern shoulder masters embodied in the technology of psychotronic weapons the entire vast arsenal of torture craftsmanship. For terrorists, a human subject is an ideal target for which invisible beam impulses deliver traumatic blows. Sometimes in a sadistic ecstasy, terrorists torture their victims with extreme cruelty for quite a long time. Brain invaders get into the most sacred, intimate and innermost, electron-beam whips punish for disobedience. Thus the cry of a defenseless person for help is regarded by the law-enforcement bodies and others as a delirium of a madman. A kind of psychotronic hood is created, the electron-beam tentacles of which clingingly hold their victim in space, tightly isolated from the rest of the world. Remote control and constant stimulation of vital parts of the brain and the body allows to avoid a quick death of the subject.

As a rule, terrorists process the entire genetic tree of the chosen victim. But if the victim himself is terrorized in the open way, his relatives and friends are processed secretly, according to a more gentle program, dominated by attitudes of complete incomprehension of the problem.

When carrying out psychoprogramming and terror the criminals rigorously observe the basic principle of psychocomfascism, which is the slow suppression and destruction of a person psychophysically, as a personality, the destruction of his self. If a person had some positive qualities, they will turn him into the complete opposite. For example, if a person had a good intellect, they will turn him into a complete degenerate, an athlete into an invalid, a handsome person into a freak, a sociable person into a reserved person, a neat person into a slob, etc.

Synopsis: The results of scientific studies of the effects of electromagnetic fields and acoustic waves on human psychosomatics fully coincide with the feelings of victims of psychotronic weapons. In both cases present: shingling and sharp headaches, dizziness; pressure on the eardrum; vibrations ( vibration) of the abdominal wall and thorax, certain muscle groups; dry mouth; pain in teeth and gums; difficulty swallowing; moist hands; pain in bones and muscles; tremors of extremities; genital and anal pain; genital excitement, genital oppression; arrhythmias; increased or decreased blood pressure; decreased visual acuity; cough; increased or decreased body temperature; coma; itching; tumescence of tissues; speech modulation; state of fear, anxiety, etc.д. With purposeful irradiation the above sensations can be easily controlled, considerably expanded, purposeful influence on any parts of the brain and the body, use a person as a radio-controlled model. The list of artificially created diseases and health damages of test subjects fully corresponds to the list of diseases and health damages of people subjected to electromagnetic and acoustic irradiation. According to this list the most common are: malignant neoplasms, lesions of cardiovascular system, blood coagulation or decay, brain diseases, functional changes or lesions up to fatal in peripheral and central nervous system, eye diseases, diseases of genital organs, musculoskeletal system disorders, bone tissue decay, organ damage or tearing, muscle atrophy, endocrine system lesions, skin damages, trophic damages - hair loss, nail fragility, etc.

Information for reflection.

Practically all technologies of psychoprogramming of people involve obligatory rigid processing of the psychoenergetic center of a person, which includes: heart, organs located in the abdominal region, genitals, prostate, uterus and its appendages, spine, cerebellum, left and right hemispheres of the brain, frontal lobes, vision, other senses and vocal chords.

Synopsis: According to official statistics in the countries of the former Soviet Union there is almost no person who does not suffer from a chronic disease. The most common are: diseases of organs located in the pelvic area, mental and nervous disorders, oncological and cardiovascular diseases, eye diseases and diseases of the musculoskeletal system.

HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVISTS WARN - IT'S DANGEROUS TO WATCH TV!

For several decades, the media have been used to create a conformist and obedient population: radio, television, and film. Biosignals embedded in film footage and texts imperceptibly affect the subconscious and form a certain stereotypical worldview in the population, depending on the political goals of those in power. The KGB-FSK-FSB Department 3 has been long and successfully engaged in this kind of processing of the population. In the USA and Japan the use of mass media to modify the behavior of the population is prohibited because the impact of bioelectronic signals on the human brain and organism causes irreparable damage to human health, contributes to the transformation of people into biorobots and is an attack on human rights. Recently, "sublimated cassettes" have been coming into the commercial network, on which texts that affect the human subconscious and form his worldview have been recorded in a special way.

ALIENS, DRUBASHKI, BABA YAGA AND OTHER DEVILS

Simultaneously with the appearance of "healing" centers, the pseudo-science of "ufology" became widespread in the former USSR, which against the truthful articles about psychotronic weapons, began to spread among the population fantastic information about the arrival of "aliens", "drubashka," abnormal phenomena, bring fairy-tale heroes to life. For several years, these publications have fooled the population and absolved them of responsibility. But even if to imagine the arch-impossible and assume that some "very clever anomaly" or "aliens" conduct a psychotronic war against the population, in this case several obvious questions arise at once. Firstly, who equipped "anomalies and aliens" with Earth computers and ultramodern superweapons? Secondly, why do they deal with political issues and help those in power and special services?

Third, why do they use mental hospitals as prisons for test subjects? Fourth, why don't the government and intelligence agencies, if they are sane, take any measures to ensure the safety of the population?

Note: Starting the secret development of psychotechnological weapons, military scientists and special services took care of their preventive security in advance, which was to distribute disinformation material. To create it they had to scrupulously study all the legends, tales, preserved manuscripts about activity of various pagan sects and clans, thoroughly study all documents about trance sciences, unusual and abnormal phenomena, which ever happened on the Earth and even to fantasize. Having systematized all this huge material and combined it with materials of the studied clinics of natural and artificially created mental diseases, they included it practically into all programs of psychotronic and other types of modern exotic weapons.

Recently, all of the above-mentioned nonsense has been refuted by the revelation of scientific experts. Probably everyone could notice that today there is a significant decrease of such literature on bookstores, it was displaced by truthful publications about application of psychotronic and other modern exotic weapons to the population. Now it does not take much effort to disprove all the phantasmagoric nonsense invented and disseminated by special services. It is enough for anyone to familiarize themselves with declassified documents in the field of creation of the latest weapons and with the latest achievements of scientific and technological progress.

Geological weapons (lithospheric, tectonic). Geological weapons are based on the use of energy of the lithosphere of the Earth's crust. Geological weapons are used to create artificial earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, movement of geological formations. The effect is achieved by means of series of directed explosions in certain points of tectonic tension. Artificial cataclysms can also be caused by other means. For example, in order to create a small earthquake it is enough to pump a large volume of liquid into the tectonic fault zone or to install a powerful vibrator. The same effect can be achieved using non-lethal weapons.

More than a hundred underground nuclear explosions were carried out in the former Soviet Union to test geological weapons. According to official documents, such explosions were allegedly performed for national economic needs. The turning of the northern rivers was supposed to be done using a tunnel created by an underground nuclear explosion with a directed action. One of such nuclear explosions was carried out in the basin of the Indigirka River, as a result of which the river and the surrounding area became radioactive for several hundred kilometers.

According to independent experts, geological weapons of destruction were used in Spitak, Georgia and Kyrgyzstan. On November 12, 1990 small earthquakes shook all the Central Asian capitals. In October 1991 the Executive Committee of the Nationwide Congress of the Chechen People made an official statement that it had documents at its disposal that allowed it to argue that the catastrophic earthquakes were manifestations of space weapons testing in near-Earth space. Experts have long noticed that virtually in all cases earthquakes occur after active protests by Southern peoples against communist rule and the independence movement. The Communists, who were in no hurry to withdraw from big politics at the time, benefited from the distraction of southern peoples from political, economic and national problems. During the artificially created earthquakes, the Communist press of the time almost openly insinuated that nature itself was supposedly protesting and punishing apostates from Communist ideals. In recent years, Dimitrovgrad, Dzerzhinsk, Sasovo, Novosibirsk and other non-seismic cities and areas were shaken. But the surprising thing is that since November 1989 the capital was surrounded by an invisible protective wall. How many times were storm warnings announced in the city, but hurricanes and heavy rains, which caused floods in other areas, power outages, destruction and casualties, did not reach Moscow. An invisible wall of protection threw off powerful unfavorable "anomalies," and they, losing their power, collapsed. The types of exotic weapons used need different kinds of tests - both for defeat and for protection against their damaging factors.

In 1998, however, this kind of "anomaly" did not spare the Russian capital. It is likely that in this case, too, an important role was played by a change in the political situation in the country, or there were weaknesses in the defense and it failed...

Biospheric weapons (environmental). Biospheric weapons are based on chemical and biological and physical destruction of flora and fauna. The use of non-lethal weapons is possible.

Atmospheric weapons (meteorological, climatic). Atmospheric weapons are affected by various processes related to the disturbance of weather and climatic conditions. As a result of artificial influence on the atmosphere, non-lethal weapons can be used, thunderstorm processes arise, their trajectory is changed, the usual precipitation of cold and warm clouds are caused, fog is dispersed or increased. Opportunities have been found to apply temperature changes and create hurricane winds over large areas. Research is underway to destroy the ozone layer, which absorbs ultraviolet radiation and protects life on Earth. Atmospheric weapons can turn fertile areas into deserts.

Hydrospheric weapons, Hydrospheric weapons are based on the use for military purposes of the energy of the hydrosphere (rivers, seas, oceans, glaciers) and hydro-technologies. As a striking factor, huge waves can be created, such as tsunamis and flooding of large areas, as well as breaking of the ice cover. An explosion of a 1-megaton charge can melt 100 million tons of ice and flood the entire northern hemisphere of the globe.

High-precision weapons (HPW) and weapons based on new physical principles (ONFP), (smart weapons). The 20th century saw the emergence of new weapons and entire combat systems capable of performing human and nuclear weapons tasks. New weapons were used in all wars after 1945. In the Korean War of 1950-53, 9 previously unknown weapons were used. In Vietnam in 1964-75. -25. In the Arab-Israeli wars in 1967-73-82-86 -25. - 30. In Afghanistan - 50. In the 1991 Gulf War, over 100. WTO and ONFP consist of several types of weapons: kinetic, laser, acoustic, electromagnetic and radiation. Kinetic weapons are based on increasing the power of explosives and increasing the accuracy of hitting the target. At the same time the combat effectiveness of the missile increases by 400 times. Human action in such a war would be reduced to a minimum. Human duties will include only pressing the button. Shoot and forget, the rest will be done by the intelligent weapon itself. Reconnaissance strike combat systems of tactical, operational and strategic purposes RUBS, located on artificial satellites of the Earth. The main striking element is high-speed air and sea based cruise missiles, 8 times faster than the speed of sound. The kill range of such missiles ranges from 500 to 8,000 kilometers. The movement to the target can take place both at an altitude of 30 meters and at an altitude of 60 kilometers. The movements of missiles are corrected by observation systems installed on artificial satellites. Such missiles can dive at the target almost from outer space. The homing systems on the radiation source will make the hit accuracy absolute.

Laser weapons are based on new physical principles. Objectives: to defeat manpower, scope optics, electronic devices, disabling space warfare systems.

Acoustic weapons are based on the emission of energy of a certain frequency, capable of inflicting damage to manpower. Combat generators are installed on air, sea and space carriers. Radiation to the target is capable of turning a division into a herd of idiots.

Electromagnetic weapons defeat enemy manpower and electronic devices. Installed on artificial satellites of the Earth.

Radiation weapons are capable of targeting the enemy's living force. WTO and DNFD will become the backbone of the armed forces of many states in 10-15 years. But even today, prototypes of future weapons are already in the arsenal of top-secret military units.

PUI is a weapon of psychophysical intelligence control. Weapons are based on biophysical and physical principles of transmitting control signals over long distances using technical means.

Psychotropic weapons. Designed to control the behavior of the population.

Technotropic weapons. Designed to control the behavior of the population.

Biotropic weapons. Designed to control the behavior of the population using the human genetic apparatus.

Future soldiers' equipment will include a protective helmet with a display mask to display necessary information, special uniforms (overalls, gloves, boots) ensuring protection against bullets, fragments, chemical and biological weapons, incendiary agents, laser, microwave and acoustic radiation, an air conditioner maintaining an optimal microclimate, a small-sized personal computer, navigation equipment for communication with "friend-or-foe" identification, a set of sensitive sensors (optical, acoustic, thermal imaging, etc.), and a light-emitting diode (LEM). Armament: laser, microwave, acoustic, electric and conventional weapons. Auxiliary means: robotic means of various purposes, vehicles protected by armor and bullet traps, equipped with special electromagnetic, infrared and acoustic installations; system ensuring invisibility of units and equipment, based on fiberglass optics. In ten years' time, the armed forces of many nations will be equipped and armed in this way. But already now secret military units and secret units of special services are equipped in this way.

In the last decade virtual computer technologies have become widespread, which in combination with special equipment allow to manipulate human consciousness, put him in any illusory state. At the same time a person ceases to be guided in time and space, begins to communicate with an illusory object, to feel it with his soul and body. At the Virtualistics Laboratory of the Institute of the Russian Academy of Sciences, methods and a computer stand were developed to simulate and study psychological virtual realities. For example, the "airplane" technique can activate the self-image of flight. A person put into such a state with the help of a special psychotechnique has a feeling of flight. The technique of "cybersex" makes it possible to put a person into a state of artificial sexual intercourse with an illusory sexual partner. The "cyberkiller" technique makes it possible to put a person into the mind of a murderer, etc. Virtual computer technology can be used for express training. Cyber techniques are widely used by intelligence agencies to create a super-spy, by the military to create a super-soldier, by gangsters to create a super-killer. And so on. In the early 90s, a program for creating computer-based "virtual civilizations" began to be implemented in the world. In Japan, a virtual city called Habitat was created (Kozumi, 1995). Any computer owner can become a resident of this city - an "author". When a person acquires citizenship he is offered to choose his appearance from 1100 variants, to choose his clothes. The system uses the latest computer graphics, enhancing the realism of the virtual environment. Residents of the virtual city mostly lead a "sofa lifestyle". Gradually, a person becomes a slave to the thinking and controlling machine. Virtual computer technology is widely used in mass psychotronic processing of the population.

In 1977 the Spanish scientist professor of physiology Jose Delgado said that if previously to control thinking and body functions it was necessary to implant electrodes in the human brain or be in close proximity, now with the development of scientific and technological progress it is possible to do without any aids and control thinking and human body functions at any distance. The father of cybernetics, Norbert Wiener, has repeatedly warned that the creation of modern cybernetic machines could eventually lead to the enslavement of the human mind by machines that can reproduce themselves and possess a mind several orders of magnitude greater than human. In 1994, in Naples, during a congress on cybernetic medicine, Wiener warned scientists that his brainchild, cybernetics, could serve the cause of human extermination, the destruction of humanity. Another major scientist, John von Neumann, warned that with the development of electronics mankind is threatened by a technotronic catastrophe. The prominent scientist Ross Ashby held the same opinion about the future of cybernetics: "The most serious threat posed by a controlling machine will be its egoism. If, at an early stage of the development of the cybernetic machine, we are able to make it act as far as possible in our favour, then later on, when the machine, through its evolutionary development, acquires its own power, it will inevitably subordinate human society to its will. One example of the perfection of modern electronic machines is the convincing victory of the Super-Computer over the world chess champion G. Kasparov.

CONFIDENCE IN COMPLETE IMPUNITY OR A GANGSTER FARCE?

Most domestic scientists working on the creation of the latest modern weapons are well aware of where, by whom, when, for what and on whom their monstrous inventions will be used. But they look through their fingers, considering their bloody craft to be interesting, prestigious and moneyed. At the same time, some of them, not only do not hide their participation in the creation of such weapons and testing them on the unsuspecting population, but they openly declare that they will continue to consciously engage in the development of devilish weapons and the opinion of the public and degraded population is of no interest to them at all. The main thing would be to be interested and pay money. I would like to remind these superhams, paranoiacs and maniacs of science that the Nuremberg tribunal found guilty those doctors and scientists who conducted countless criminal experiments on concentration camp prisoners. Nor did the fact that they called themselves instruments in the hands of the Nazi regime absolve them of responsibility. It wouldn't do any harm to remind them of the Middle Ages, too, when their colleagues were burned at the fires of the Inquisition by the Church. This was probably justified in some cases. It would do well to remind them of another very important circumstance, that yesterday international law provided only one punishment for such atrocities - the gallows, and that even today such types of crimes have no statute of limitations.

GHOULS IN WHITE COATS

For several decades, the criminal activities of communist and post-communist medicine and its links with the security services and the military have been exposed. Criminals in white coats openly confess to heinous crimes related to artificially created mass epidemics, to conducting criminal experiments on military personnel during nuclear, biological, chemical and other modern weapons tests; conducting medical, biological, pharmacological, scientific, military experiments on prisoners in jails and concentration camps, prisoners of mental hospitals, clinic patients, athletes, newborns and the general population of cities, villages and hamlets; the hunt for people with excellent health for the purpose of surgical removal of organs for transplantation to sick party functionaries and colleagues and for sale for foreign currency to the West; in trafficking in parentless children in institutions under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Health. For over thirty years, unsuspecting populations have been consuming up to 40% of genetically engineered foods. For over thirty years, Soviet and post-Soviet medical scientists have been conducting Jesuit experiments in cloning humans and animals, with the goal of creating a standard, conformist-obedient citizen, and then replicating it in unlimited quantities. Publications are replete with previously classified ghoul decrees, orders, calls, resolutions, orders, instructions, and circulars directed against the life and health of the population. Episodes from the files of medical crimes are given. Here are just a few of them:

The Sklifosov Research Institute of Emergency Medicine has a branched network of commercial structures selling human tissues and organs. There is an extensive network of commercial entities that sell human tissues and organs at the Sklifosovsky Research Institute of Emergency Medicine. One of such firms annually supplies up to 600 donor kidneys to the foreign market, at a total cost of $1 million 200,000. There have been published materials on the activities of doctors of these firms who, to fulfill orders, caught people in order to remove their healthy organs to sell them for foreign currency to the West. The Research Institute has been conducting experiments with cadaver blood for over thirty years. The blood of a recently deceased person is especially valued. The more alive, the better quality, and therefore more expensive. Few human parts - little money, a lot of human parts - a lot of money...

During the local wars, many doctors became fabulously rich, as Russian medical institutions were literally flooded with severely and lightly wounded soldiers. One journalist told me that he saw with his own eyes the price tag and trade in human organs. Hearts, pituitary glands, livers, and frozen eyeballs were being sold under the hammer. "Blue eyeballs of a young and healthy human being for sale, starting price $30,000, who wants more?" - the auctioneer announced.

Russia ranks first in the world in the production of abortions and has the largest bank of human embryos. Specialized public and private medical and pharmaceutical firms make medicines and cosmetics from human embryos in their production facilities, which, when sold on the domestic, foreign and black markets, bring them a considerable profit. Medicines and cosmetics made from human biomass have long been used by the party elite, the leadership of communist and post-communist states, bankers and some of the creative intelligentsia. Creams, powder, lotions made of human flesh became an integral part of their toilet accessories.

At the end of the 60's, in some research institutes of the Siberian Branch of the USSR Academy of Medical Sciences, one could freely buy narcotic substances in unlimited quantities, most of which contained behavior modifiers. The reasonable price, two large dogs for one liter of morphine, contributed to the spread of drugs among the youth of Novosibirsk and its region. The investigation launched was immediately terminated by someone.

"The first batch of test soldiers in the immediate vicinity of the epicenter of the explosion behaves inadequately. Many soldiers have hair loss, anemia, bone decomposition, cell mutation. About a third of the battalion begins to run amok. Many begin to guess what has happened to them. There is an urgent need to change the contingent." From the

In April 1995, Director of the Moscow Health Department, Solovyov, issued Order No. 252, according to which medical workers were forbidden to give patients their medical outpatient cards. Solovyov's Order enables authorities and healthcare workers to conceal from the population an unfavorable environmental situation, the real cause of diseases of citizens connected with their work at environmentally hazardous productions, the unprofessionalism of doctors; to conduct with impunity medical, biological, scientific, military and other experiments; to use psychiatry for punitive purposes and as a screen to disguise open use of psychotronic and other modern exotic weapons towards the population; and to use documents as a cover-up for the use of psychoactive substances. This document is an open attack on human rights. It contradicts the provisions of the law on compulsory health insurance and the provisions of national and international health legislation, which require that all medical documents relating to their health be handed over to patients.

In early 1996, the Moscow Health Department prepared another totalitarian document, according to which it was decided to equip train stations and all the approaches to the capital with peculiar filtration points operated by psychiatrists and police. Now everyone who is badly dressed, as well as people with a strange expression, or having no documents, or talking about psychotronic weapons passes through them. Assuming the reaction that would follow, the Department of Health plans to equip ambulance doctors with police radios and gas weapons in the near future, and to increase the security of medical facilities in case citizens are attacked by health workers who have taken on police and punitive functions that are unnatural for their profession.

Reference: 1. According to the generally recognized opinion of international organizations, medical workers of the former USSR had and have the lowest qualifications among their colleagues from civilized countries. 2. According to official statistics, state agencies of the former Soviet Union have received and continue to receive the most complaints about medical workers. 3. According to estimates of international experts, medical drugs produced and released in the former Soviet Union did not meet and do not comply with international standards, many drugs have pronounced side effects, some are not suitable for the treatment of people, 4. 4. The former USSR occupied and still occupies the first place in the world for conducting uncontrolled experiments on people and animals. 5. Data from a silent sociological survey of psychiatrists showed that about 15% of them had mental health problems before entering medical schools. When they received their diplomas as psychiatrists, they pursued the goal of asserting themselves in society and being able to treat their own mental illnesses. 10% of psychiatrists suffer from occupational diseases that manifest themselves as nervous and mental disorders. 70% of all psychiatrists cooperate with the military-industrial complex, the Interior Ministry and special services. The former Soviet Union had and still has an extensive network of closed research institutes of the KGB-FSB, the Interior Ministry and the Ministry of Defense with the main areas of medicine and psychiatry.

At present, the Russian government has prepared a decree on mandatory psychiatric examination of all persons of retirement age, with subsequent registration as a psychiatrist. Before giving any assessment of the next humiliation of the nation, it is necessary to ask the classic question accepted in such cases: "And who benefits from it?" And then to turn to the history of our long-suffering country and recall Stalin's concentration camps for the disabled, whose prisoners freed millions of square meters of living space, spared the state from paying pensions and providing free medical care. As you can see, history is repeating itself.

In June 1995, Russian Deputy Minister of Health A. Tsaregorodtsev (now ex-minister), made an official statement to the Russian State Duma and to a number of interested public and religious organizations that all persons with mental illnesses that have a connection to the activities of religious and other organizations will be treated on a general basis. The creation of special centers for the rehabilitation of sectarians is not planned and is not envisioned by the law.

In written responses and conversations with human rights activists, Tsaregorodtsev categorically denied the possibility of any external influence on human psychophysical activity. What about the licenses and diplomas of "sorcerers" issued by his agency and experiments conducted in mental hospitals with the use of psychotronic generators? How should we understand Mr. Tsaregorodtsev? Somewhere he admits such a possibility, and somewhere he completely denies it! And what is he going to "treat" citizens caught in the net of the State terror machine? Psychotropics? Special drugs? "Sorcerers?" Or psychotronic generators? "Incompetent" psychiatrists, who had already received the first batch of sectarians, could see for themselves that they were not amenable to any "treatment". And this goes without saying, as the psychotronic terror of the victims continues in the mental hospitals. Terrorists do not leave their victims alone until they die. Probably even a schoolboy understands that it is impossible for a soldier who took a pill to protect himself from a bullet and for a test subject from the radiation components of a psychotronic weapon. The soldier can only be protected by a bulletproof vest or helmet, while the test subject can only be protected by special screens or special electronic equipment. The drugs administered to prisoners in mental hospitals, many of which are banned worldwide, are behavior modifiers. They contribute to the rapid and qualitative transformation of people into biorobots, to the intensification of psychophysical torture and torture. These drugs have no positive effect on the victims of psychotronic weapons. He-psychiatrists do not release the victims until they lie and say that no one else affects them. And only a small portion of the victims, intended to disguise the crime, are treated neutrally in psych hospitals.

As part of special programs, medical and pharmacological centers, the military and special services have been using mental hospitals as testing grounds for decades, testing and improving the technology of biological, chemical, psychotronic and other modern weapons on experimental subjects deprived of all rights.

According to the assessments of the prisoners of the Yellow Gulag, human rights activists and honest psychiatrists, domestic mental hospitals are the worst prisons that have nothing to do with medical institutions. Data from questionnaires of victims of psychotronic weapons show that 90% of them are pathologically afraid of people in white coats and compare them to medieval executioners or Lubyanka interrogators.

If earlier people used to jump out of bed at night when they heard the screeching of "black raven" brakes from the NKVD-KGB under their windows, now they jump out of bed when they hear the screeching of "ambulance" brakes under their windows.

"The only thing scarier than an asylum is death!" - say the inmates of yellow prisons.

"The only thing scarier than death is a remote KGB torture chamber!" - say the victims of psychotronic weapons.

Reference: Several years ago the Federal Government adopted a global program for further improvement and modernization of human psychophysical activity management technologies. It was assumed that due to its implementation the number of "guinea pigs" would increase several times. In order to conceal this monstrous crime another program was adopted called "Improvement of psychiatric assistance to the population". Within its framework, several hundreds of yellow prisons are to be constructed in Russia by 1997, and the old buildings, which are still usable, are to be repaired as soon as possible. The authorities are also developing an addendum to the criminal code, giving broad rights to psychiatrists and the police to force citizens into psychiatric prisons. Casuistic documents are being drafted that tendentiously interpret the mental illness clinic in favor of criminals. To implement all these actions, in the summer of 1996, a psychiatrist is appointed to the post of Minister of Health of Russia. In the near abroad, representatives of this, one of the dirtiest professions in the world, are also appointed to various key posts. In 1997, psychiatrists, together with the Ministry of Internal Affairs and the FSB, began a mass hunt for victims of psychotronic and other exotic terror.

Still, as many years ago, psychiatry remains the only and most stable cover-up for the heinous crime committed against the population with impunity.

From a secret memo to the Chairman of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Federation R.Khasbulatov. The note is dated January 26, 1993.

"We are talking about a branch of knowledge known as parapsychology and psychotronics, on the basis of which since 1977 according to official state programs in a number of technically developed countries (USA, Germany, France, Italy, Israel, South Africa, USSR), there is developing technical means of correction and control of human behavior based on biophysical principles of control signals transmission over long distances - weapons of psychophysical intelligence control (PIC)". "In military-industrial complexes of these countries there is a standard classification of weapons: atomic weapons - third type; atomic in combination with acousto-biophysical means - fourth type; psychotropic weapons based on technical principles - fifth type; technotropic weapons based on the same principles - sixth type; biotropic weapons with impact on genetic apparatus - seventh type. Weapons of mass destruction of the fifth to the seventh type do not destroy the technical achievements of society (buildings, structures, etc.), do not kill people and animals, they "only" make them manageable and docile. This logic gave reason to call the new type of weapons (environmentally friendly weapons)." "In view of the above, humane interstate agreements on disarmament should be considered in aspects of the reality of a new and as yet invisible round of armaments (PUE weapons). The renunciation of atomic weapons can be viewed from a somewhat different perspective. After all, the funds freed from such disarmament will rush freshly into - paying for the race for strategic superiority in the field of a new generation of weapons - psychotronic weapons".

On June 15, 1993 the chairman of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Federation R. Khasbulatov signed the Law "On Weapons", article 6, paragraph "e" of which prohibits the use of weapons and objects based on the use of electrical energy, radioactive radiation and biological factors.

On April 17, 1996 in Moscow, in the Central House of Journalists at a press conference "Psycho-weapons and zombification of population" it was decided to recognize the existence of psychotronic weapons and their use against the population.

In 1996, General A. Lebed, Secretary of the Security Council and National Security Aide to the President of the Russian Federation, said the following in an interview with journalists: "We are already facing new types of threats, which have emerged due to the emergence of technologies for psychosemantic modeling of human behavior. New, more effective systems of influencing the consciousness and the subconscious of the population are being developed. And there are many examples of this. Moreover, we can assume that the hurricane breakdown of values, which occurred in the Soviet Union and then in Russia, was carried out as a special psychological operation".

Every year the former Soviet Union makes hundreds of uncontrolled launches of ballistic missiles into Soviet military space, which deliver advanced space weapons and equipment for space psychotronic stations, dozens of police and spy satellites into orbit. While ranting about the peaceful use of space, our country itself violates the Outer Space Treaty, which forbids the launch into orbit, installation on the Moon, celestial bodies, and placement of weapons of mass destruction in outer space.

The use of psychotronic weapons on the population is contrary to a set of international treaties and agreements signed by the governments of the leading countries of the world behind closed doors, but which have recently become public.

At present, there is practically no newspaper in the former Soviet Union that has not published articles about psychotronic weapons and their use on the population. Foreign media outlets have not been spared. One of the earliest publications is the article by CIA officer Edward Hunter entitled "Brainwashing", which appeared in 1952 in a Mayak newspaper. The essence of the article was as follows. According to its author, the Chinese and Russians had found an original, but top secret way to change the mindset of American prisoners.

In 1988, the Washington Post published an article reporting that the USSR possessed "bloodless" weapons capable of controlling human health at a distance, exerting any effect on human behavior, and even killing, without resorting to traditional methods. The FAR expressed concern that the Russians, using these weapons, could disarm soldiers of U.S. or allied armies located in areas where nuclear weapons were deployed.

In 1990, the same newspaper reported that the Russians might be ahead in the development of psychotechnology weapons. This concern was fueled by reports of extensive parapsychological research from Soviet defectors. According to these reports, the Russians manage to influence the behavior of others, change their emotions and health conditions, make them lose consciousness, and even kill them.

Currently, there is not a single person in the former Soviet Union who does not know about psychotronic weapons and psychotronic influence. Therefore, all incomprehensible officials, can be attributed to only one of two categories. Either the person is connected to the crime, or he is under psychotronic influence. The third category simply does not exist in nature.

In accordance with international instruments, articles have been introduced into the legislation of Western countries that provide for punishment for such crimes. There are also centers and committees for the protection of the individual, equipped with special equipment capable of registering any external influence exerted on a person.

Propaganda and advertising of so-called "psychic" is prohibited. In the countries of the former Soviet Union there are no such laws, there are no centers and committees for the protection of personality, although Moscow and most of the cities in the country are literally stuffed with the most modern and diverse equipment that can not only register any radiation, but also protect the person being treated from any external influence. However, the authorities do not take any measures to ensure the safety of the population.

THE WHITE HOUSE IN THE PSYCHOTRONIC DIMENSION

During the August 1991 putsch, Colonel General K. Kobets, commander of the White House Defense, publicly stated that the putschists may use psychotronic weapons against the defenders, which, according to the defenders, were used in some areas. During the October 1993 events psychotronic weapons were already used on a mass scale, according to participants and military officers. Communist clans and special services had carefully planned all artificially created situations related to the White House and Ostankino. The October combination of Communist and Fascist banners caused quite natural bewilderment in many people, but once again convincingly confirmed the similarity of their ideologies, the inseparability of their ties, and the identity of their goals. Probably everyone also remembered the rather strange - if they were considered by military experts - appeals of the major military leaders of the rebel house. Here are a few of them: "Dzerzhinsky's division will support us!", "The West Siberian Military District will support us!", "Everyone to storm Ostankino, after capturing it we will be able to address the people and restore the status quo!" All these appeals came from the mouths of generals who were well versed in the capabilities of military equipment, the real capabilities of the rebels, and the unlimited capabilities of the Kremlin. They would have to understand and realize that it would be enough for their enemy to use one type of non-lethal weapon so that not a single internal combustion engine of Dzerzhinsky's division would start, that it would be enough to suppress all the radio-electronic points and navigation equipment of aircraft and to cut off all the railway and highway communications, so that not a single plane, not a single train or convoy of troops could reach Moscow. They would have to understand and realize that a paramilitary and poorly trained insurgent contingent, armed only with small arms, could not storm, much less seize, such a state strategic and propagandistic institution as Ostankino. In turn, for some reason, the Kremlin, unable to find a correct and reasonable solution for localizing the hotbed of tension, adopted a "strange", monstrous and simultaneously provocative decision - to shoot the White House. By making this decision, the Kremlin reversed all the democratic achievements of 1991. There is no doubt that the October events were created artificially and served as a springboard for the use of psychotronic weapons for political provocation, political discredit and political speculation.

HOUR "H"

At the present time in the former Soviet Union there is a war for power between the clans of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The clan with a comfascist bias, the KGB-FSB has psychotronic weapons, using which it is trying to change the political, economic and social situation in the country.

The clan policy of Comfascists and other clans includes in their program the use of psychotronic weapons to artificially create interethnic conflicts on the territory of the former USSR. The mere fact that Soviet people, brought up on international traditions and hatred of fascism, began to support fascist organizations and actively participate in local military conflicts aimed at national animosity and hatred of other nations, indicates that this policy is firmly embedded in our life and has been implemented in practice for several years. It is probably appropriate to recall here the warning of the last General Secretary M. Gorbachev, who said that the clans of the CPSU Central Committee would not give up the country so easily. They will start their war for power by paralyzing the economy and inciting ethnic hatred, which subsequently will escalate into local wars, which cannot be stopped until a state of emergency is imposed in those areas and in the state itself, which will serve as the beginning of a military-police state.

Long before the plan was implemented, the analytical departments of the CPSU Central Committee and the KGB had developed mechanisms for the artificial creation of interregional explosive geopolitical zones in the USSR, which were to destabilize the situation in the country during its implementation. By skillfully using artificially created hotbeds of tension, creators of this monstrous plan acquired unlimited opportunities to manipulate the political, economic and social situation in the country. The most suitable areas were chosen for the creation of such zones: Karabakh, Moldova, Georgia and Chechnya.

Chaos, criminality, hyperinflation, interethnic conflicts and local wars, and an upsurge of discontent suit the Comfascists to the fullest extent. Their leaders have recently begun to openly state that the ground has been prepared for a transition to another state. All that remains is to wait for the tipping point, and then their long-awaited "Ch" hour will come. However, recently trends of prevailing of the state security system over warring clans have clearly begun to emerge. It is as if the FSB became a separate structure and set itself the goal of independently seizing power.

THE DISPASSIONATE NUMBERS ARE RINGING THE ALARM BELL

Honest scientists warn that psychotronic warfare will destroy most of the population, lead to degradation and psychotronic enslavement of the peoples of the former Soviet Union. The best confirmation of these warnings can be the monstrous statistics, which is more reminiscent of Sovinformburo summaries during World War II.

Synopsis: According to official statistics, the population of the former Soviet Union is dying out. Life expectancy fluctuates at the level of underdeveloped countries. Mortality in some regions far exceeds the birth rate. Child mortality, by which our country has always held one of the leading places in the world, still tends to increase. Scientists predict that the population will continue to decline without population recovery. Already they warn that today's first-graders will become disabled or not live to matriculation at all during their years in high school. For more than five years, official statistics have stated that not a single person in the country suffers from any chronic illness, for many of which we also rank among the first in the world, while the contingent of the armed forces of the former Soviet Union consists of 70% of soldiers who have no place in the army but in hospital beds. The former empire of evil is shaken by epidemics of the worst diseases, which, according to medics, were ended once and for all in the Middle Ages. Every day thousands of citizens who were poisoned by substandard food apply to medical institutions. The former Soviet Union ranks first in the world in terms of the number of crimes committed. Leads in the number of suicides and abortions. And the number of aviation, train and automobile accidents brings the former Soviet Union to the finish line to the pedestal of record-breakers in this area. The curve of accidents at environmentally harmful industries is steadily moving vertically. Chernobyl, Chelyabinsk, Semipalatinsk and Novaya Zemlya have claimed millions of lives and turned vast areas into uninhabited spaces. Other figures do not inspire optimism either, but make a depressing impression. Some are eager to ignore these terrible figures; some are determined to hide them from the population, to remove their focus, to give them their own interpretation, to downplay their significance. But the dispassionate figures on the scoreboard of vital time inexorably continue to ring the alarm bell and call upon the careless population to take immediate emergency measures to ensure their safety.

In 1992 systems of radar complexes based on beam reflection from Earth's ionosphere were created. Included in these systems phased antennas can work for radiation, create a single psychotronic field, able to influence the behavior of the population. Such systems were created in Chernobyl and Krasnoyarsk-26.

For several years in Academician Anokhin's Research Institute of Normal Physiology, a group of scientists headed by the Head of the Department of Normal Human Physiology Medelanovsky and a group of scientists headed by the Head of the Laboratory of the Research Institute of Radioelectronics Godik conducted secret laboratory and clinical tests to create technologies for changing states of brain function and corresponding somatic states of the whole organism. Tests of technologies for control of mental and somatic states were successful. The discovery of more perfect technology made it a reality to control any person as a robot at any distance. In 1990, the USSR Ministry of Health and the USSR Academy of Sciences gave high marks to the new method. The former Minister of Foreign Affairs E. Shevardnadze rendered great support to the scientists. From the words of the staff of these research institutes it is known that for several decades they received tens of thousands of letters in which the victims of psychotronic weapons, knowing the real profile of the institutes, asked their leaders Sudakov and Gulyaev for technical protection, but they left these requests without any attention.

Heretical thoughts do not leave N. Bekhtereva, an academician of a large and small medical academy, the scientific director of the Brain Center in St. Petersburg. In 1990, when she was director of the IEM, the cabinet of the USSR minister allocated a large sum of money to the IEM. This led to a conflict situation between the Institute's employees who did not receive a penny for their research work and Bekhtereva. The Leningrad IEM was the first in the USSR to apply the method of implanting electrodes into the human brain to control its activity. The IEM, and later the Brain Center, were quite successful in solving the problems of modeling neural networks of the human brain to create biorobots. IEM performed orders from the military and the KGB. There is no doubt that the Brain Center was created for the development of the newest types of psychotronic weapons.

For more than 20 years, psychotronic weapon technologies have been developed by the Research Institute of the AMS SB IKEM, headed by Academician V. Kaznacheev. In an interview with local broadcasting journalists, Kaznacheev admitted that in early 1990 his institute accepted orders from the military to develop psychotronic weapons. And employees of this institute in confidential conversations said that their institute accepted such orders more than twenty years ago. On the question of the journalist from the local newspaper "Moment of truth" about the reality of application of psychotronic weapons to the population V. Kaznacheev asked the journalist "to forget this topic". And then followed a very strange hint: "You have no idea what kind of control you will fall under after that," said the father of the Soviet psychics. In one of his conversations with the victims of psychotronic weapons he called 70 per cent of all psychics insane and refused to give protective equipment, stating that his institute does not and never has had any devices, although the ICEM is literally stuffed with the most diverse modern and unique equipment. This very institute was visited in early 1990 by Marshal Akhromeyev and General Crow in order to inspect it for the creation of monstrous superweapons, which frightened off the overseas politicians and military.

In 1974, the State Committee for Inventions registered both the invention and the discovery, called "Method of inducing artificial sleep at a distance by means of radio waves". The hypno-emitter was successfully tested in 1974 in military unit No. 71592 stationed near Novosibirsk. According to calculations, the power of the generators is enough to effectively treat a city with an area of about one hundred square kilometers.

According to the Decree of the CPSU Central Committee and USSR Council of Ministers of January 27, 1986 Na 137-47, the section "Lava-5" and "Ruslo-1" works were carried out in several scientific departments on the subjects". "Cosmorhythm-3", "Orion", "Fundamental research of principles and methods of remote non-contact correction of functional state of complex technical and biological systems by physical fields with pulse-code organization and their experimental and design support".

But, if we still take the information about the West's psychotronic aggression seriously, then how can we explain the victory of the Communists in 1995 in the elections of deputies to the State Duma of the Russian Federation and the victory of the Communists in the elections of heads of administrations in the regions? Yes, indeed, information about contacts between the Soviet Union and the United States in the field of joint control of psychotronics appeared in the media. Document <sup>1</sup> 174-90/16, signed by KGB chairman V. Kryuchkov and U.S. Secretary of Defense C. Weinberg, appears in the press. But this does not mean that the U.S. is conducting a psychotronic war against the peoples of the former Soviet Union. Because long-lasting and persistent silence of communist and post-communist governments on the background of the exposure of the monstrous crime and on the background of the real annihilation of the population can not be justified and cannot be justified logically. And if, nevertheless, it would be so, in which case they can only act together. Consequently, the crime acquires more monstrous forms and greatly aggravates the guilt of the leadership of the former Soviet Union, who gave their peoples into slavery to foreigners.

A monstrous crime is currently being exposed. General Rogozin, the father of psychotropic weapons, has been removed from his post. After his removal, he settled in the FSB. There is speculation that the FSB is about to launch some kind of investigation into the crime. It begs the question: who will the FSB be looking for? It will be itself, or Grishka the bandit, who is holding a super weapon instead of a crowbar, or maybe the FSB will be looking for cesurochkki, who have settled in the basements of apartment buildings and in attics? Or anyone else? Probably it does not take much intelligence to understand that super-weapons can be in the hands of the state, which artificially creates a huge network of so-called Mafia structures, equipped with primitive prototypes of psychotronic weapons, in order to disguise the crime. Consequently, the FSB will look for a black cat in a dark room, which has never been there, while expanding the circle of accomplices, artificially tying them with blood. This has already happened in the history of our country in 37, when large groups of people were forced to sign death warrants.

Under the guise of "humane" ideas, more and more government programs of criminal encroachments on the human brain are planned.

If the half-secret decree of the State Committee on Science and Technology of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR № 58 dated July 4, 1991 allowed continuing research of the spinal and lepton fields and the Center for Non-Traditional Technologies of the SCST was instructed to explore all the effects of the remote impact on the troops and the population torsion radiators, then in recent years the implementation of the devilish projects almost legally engaged more than 50 scientific research institutes, released a huge amount of money. However, the lovers of mankind believe that the funds are still not enough to start the new factories with understaffed combat psychotronic generators on their conveyors. In 1994, in the midst of unmasking the psychotronic weapons and their use against the population, they, with their characteristic effrontery, from the pages of Moskovskie Novosti newspaper appealed to the people to make donations to launch the death conveyors and create new, more perfect types of modern weapons. At the same time, for several years, the State Duma Commission has been stomping on the spot and cannot push through the powerful barrier of lobbyists to pass a bill on the protection of the human psychosphere.

Note: According to official documents published in the press, the customers for the creation of domestic psychotronic weapons are the CPSU Central Committee, the KGB, the USSR Ministry of Defense, the USSR Interior Ministry, the Cabinet of the USSR Council of Ministers, Atomenergoprom.

After reading this chapter, some readers may think that I am trying to deny the existence of such weapons in the West. No, you are not. Nor did the West sit idly by and wait for the evil empire to enslave their populations.

FREE EXPRESSION OF THE WILL OF CITIZENS, DEMOCRATIC ELECTIONS ARE NOT POSSIBLE IN CONDITIONS OF PSYCHOTRONIC PROCESSING OF THE POPULATION

The political manipulation of the population with psychotronic weapons was especially noticeable during the election campaign of 1995. A survey of residents of some regions showed that the majority of them are indifferent and do not want to participate in elections, while the rest of the population gives preference to communists and nationalists who pursue a return to the past. Is this natural? Of course not! Because with the opening of the Iron Curtain and the advent of glasnost, the population was well aware of the basic principles of communist ideology, based on violence over the individual, the leveling of all human values, and the transformation of the population into a society of standard conformists. The partially declassified and published documents from Staraya Ploshchad and the Lubyanka Square clearly demonstrated the anti-humanity, monstrosity, and supercriminal nature of the communist regime and the flawed nature of its ideology. In terms of the number of annihilated, dispossessed, deported and humiliated citizens, the regime surpassed all, even the most tyrannical and despotic states that ever existed on the globe. There is virtually no family in the former Empire of Evil in which there is not one person who has not suffered under the Communist regime.

Before continuing to assess the unnatural sympathies of the population, it is necessary to understand some questions, which could be formulated as follows. To what strata of society would we classify those people who do not want to be free, but prefer to be slaves? As a rule, such people would be categorized as flawed, degraded, limited, etc. And what do you call those people who also want to defend their right to be slaves? Probably you can't call them anything other than zombified people. In which state would any normal and freedom-loving person want to live - a totalitarian or a democratic one? Of course, any sane person will say in the democratic one. However, most of the former Soviet citizens, having experienced all the charms of the communist regime, are choosing to go back to the past. This means they voluntarily want to live as the ruling elite dictates, which they will then meekly serve as they have done for over seventy years. A person who chooses totalitarianism gives up his natural right to say what he wants rather than what others want, to freely practice his beliefs, to associate in political parties and social organizations, to hold meetings and rallies, to travel freely in the country, to travel abroad freely and to return freely, to live and work wherever he wants, to own private property and land. In a totalitarian state, a person would not belong to himself, his private and intimate life would be the property of the state and a conformist, obedient society. Naturally, no normal person would want to forfeit these rights and freedoms, which were given to him by God and nature. However, former Soviet citizens are swelling the ranks of neo-communists, even despite revelations from such communist apologists as S. Umalatova, who found the strength to call her comrades-in-arms a pack of jackals fighting for the seat of power. Everyone knows that the Kremlin democrats were communists in the recent past, and some of them still are. The only difference is that they belong to different communist clans. Consequently, our country's democracy is not a real democracy, but a communist one. But whatever it is, it is still better than the regime under which the Soviet people lived. The ancient truth is that you have to choose the lesser of two evils. Today, most of the citizens of the former Evil Empire support the neo-communists. And amazingly, none of them have asked themselves the simple question: why do we need to seek a return to the terrible and anti-human past, or is it not better to work for a better democratic present? None of them thought about the fact that the neo-communists intend to use them as cannon fodder in their struggle and immediately forget about them when they come to power. With the current balance of power and the artificially created situation in the country, it is impossible to return to the old state system, just as it is impossible to enter the same river twice, since everything flows and everything changes. At the present time, Russia can only return to the most bad and monstrous state system, whose name is Comfascism. The only way to justify the citizens' unnatural sympathies for the past is to get an unequal start after the fall of the Communist regime. If a party member or an economic nomenklatura with a lot of stolen capital and connections was free to open his own business and quickly become rich, the majority of ordinary workers and employees remained in the role of service personnel

During the 1995 election campaign, citizens approached the ME of the ICHR claiming that someone was treating them with psychotronic generators. An invisible voice penetrated their brains, convincing them to vote for the Communists. There were reports in the media from specialists in the military-industrial complex involved in the development of psychotronic weapons. They said that they were periodically approached by political functionaries with tempting offers in terms of providing them, for a fee, with specialists with psychotronic generators to process voters, with the aim of getting a majority of votes in elections. The skillfully simulated situation in the country created favorable conditions for the Communists to win the election. The long-standing, monstrous psychotronic experiment on the population brought its masters the first tangible results.

In this connection on December 10, 1995, members of the human rights movement, waging an unequal struggle against the heinous crime of the century, held the first demonstration of victims of psychotron weapons in the history of the empire of evil in Moscow. The main slogans of the demonstration were: "Free expression of the will of the citizens, democratic elections are impossible in conditions of psychotronic treatment of the population!", "Comfascists are coming to power, using psychotronic weapons against the population!", "No to psychotronic weapons!", "CPSU and KGB to the International Tribunal!

After the end of the election campaign, human rights activists prepared a number of documents, testifying to the artificially created by criminal methods environment in the country, contributing to the victory of the Communists in the elections. The documents were sent to the Russian Supreme Court. However, the highest court, having considered the application and the documents attached thereto, considered the arguments of human rights defenders not entirely convincing. However, human rights activists did not agree with the court's decision and are preparing a more extended and competent application to recognize all elections since 1995 as invalid.

THREAT TO NATIONAL SECURITY REQUIRES URGENT LEGISLATION

In connection with the current extreme situation threatening the national security of the countries of the former Soviet Union, the public should demand that their parliaments immediately introduce the following legislative acts into the constitutions and criminal legislation: 1. To introduce to the Constitutions and criminal legislations of the countries of the former Soviet Union, Russian Federation, the Law "On information, intellectual, genetic and psychophysical security of man, in light of the progress of medicine, biology, biochemistry and biophysics, as well as in light of the progress of cybernetics, electronics and other modern trends in science and technology", providing the harshest punishment for its violation. The crime should be qualified as a crime against humanity and should have no statute of limitations. The law should provide for punishment from the beginning of the crime, regardless of whether it was committed before or after its adoption. 2. The law "On Prohibition of the Development, Stockpiling and Use of Psychotronic, Psychotropic and Other Modern Exotic Weapons, as well as Special Methods Capable of Remotely Influencing Human Psychophysical Activity and Purposely Destroying Human Health" should be introduced into the constitutions and criminal legislation of the former USSR and RF, providing for the harshest punishment for such crimes. The crime should be qualified as a crime against humanity and have no statute of limitations. The law should punish from the moment the crime is committed, regardless of whether it was committed before or after it was passed. H. To introduce the Law "On Declassification and Prohibition of Activities of State Bodies, Government Agencies and Special Services that Violate Human Rights" into the Constitutions and Criminal Laws of the former Soviet Union and the Russian Federation.

Before the laws come into force it is necessary to take the following measures as a matter of urgency: 1. Immediately stop the psychotronic terror carried out by state bodies, departments and special services against the population. Destroy information, psychological and genetic codes of victims subjected to psychotronic brain and body processing and their reprogramming in the memory of electronic systems. 2. To establish state and parliamentary commissions in the former Soviet Union countries to investigate the psychotronic genocide. H. To create in the territories of the former Soviet Union and RF the centers and committees for personal protection having special protection facilities and special devices capable of registering any external influence which is exerted on a person and serviced by honest and independent personnel of our country and the West. And while there are no such centers, to provide temporary technical protection for all victims of psychotronic and other exotic terror. 4. To oblige law enforcement agencies to review the appeals of citizens who report any external influence on them and to take measures in response to them as soon as possible, primarily aimed at ensuring their safety from criminal attacks on their lives and health. 5. Prohibit psychiatric hospitals from being used for punitive purposes, as prisons for citizens alleging any external influence on them, and as a screen for the use of psychotronic, psychotropic and other types of modern exotic weapons and special means capable of remotely influencing human psychophysical activity and purposefully destroying their health. 6. Oblige medical workers to record traces of psychophysical terror exerted on citizens. To issue patients with any medical documents concerning their health. Strictly observe the provisions of national and international health legislation. To ensure the free exit of victims of psychotronic weapons from the former Soviet Union. Victims should be equated with political refugees.

On the account of the CPSU, the VCK-KGB-FSB millions of innocent our compatriots murdered, millions who passed Stalin's Gulag and the Soviet psychiatric hospital, millions who were persecuted and persecuted, therefore there is no need to give moral, political and legal assessment of another most vile and cruel vandalism.

Without a doubt, psychotronic genocide, which long ago developed into a psychotronic war against its own population, should qualify as a crime against humanity and fall under jurisprudence

LIST sources of information used in the book

1. Collection "Cybernetics expected and cybernetics unexpected". "Science, 1968.
2. "The U.S. Constitution and the Real Rule of Law." "Naukova Dumka, Kiev, 1987.
3. "USA: Course on Military Supremacy", V. Serebryanikov, E. Rybkin, I. Slivin, and S. Korshunov. Military Publishing House, 1985.
4. "U.S. Military Power Policy," P. Timokhin. Military Publishing House, 1987.
5. "Dossier of Repressions," V. Kovalev. "Molodaya Gvardiya", 1987.
6. "Army of the Night." "Politizdat, 1988.
7. "The Ethics of Science. Problems and Discussions, I. Frolov, B. Yudin. "Politizdat", 1986.
8. "Informatics: Achievements, Prospects, Possibilities," E. Semenyuk. "Nauka", 1988.
9. "Psychics - a myth or reality?", A. Translchikov. "Znanie", 1989.
10. "The organism in the world of technology" (cybernetic aspect), V. Novoseltsev. "Nauka", 1989.
11. "Man as a link of a tracking system," I. Tsibulevsky. "Nauka", 1981.
12. "Anomaly No. 6," Ecology of the Unknowable. Scientific Information Bulletin of TASS and the Association "Ecology of the Unknowable," 1991.
13. "Computer and Society." "Politizdat," 1990.
14. "Sound, Ultrasound, Infrasound," I. Horbenko. "Znanie." 1986 г.
15. "Regulation of Tracking Movements," Y. Shapkov, Y. Gerasimenko, and S. Romanov. "Nauka", 1988.
16. "Touching the Invisible, Hearing the Inaudible: Effects of Focused Ultrasound on the Senses and the Brain," I. Vartanyan, E. Tsirolnikov. "Nauka", 1985.
17. Newspaper "On the Verge of the Impossible", #3 (145) 1990. "The Mystery of the 25th Frame", A. Hamburg, employee of a laboratory financed by the 3rd Directorate of the KGB.
18. Courage Hour newsletter, 1990. "As long as the KGB exists, democracy in our country is impossible", Y. Vlasov. Editorial address: 113162, Moscow, Mytnaya St., 54, sq.32. The bulletin is currently out of print.
19. "Komsomolskaya Pravda" newspaper, 19.10.91 "Schizophrenia on the basis of KGB?"
20. Soviet Radio magazine, 1994. "UHF and Human Security."
21. "Handbook of Representative Points of Electroaculum according to R. Fol," MP "Sistema," Moscow, 1991
22. "Radio Electronics and Ecology," A. Tereitsenko. "Znanie", 1989.
23. "Thermal Imaging," A.G. Zhukov, A.N. Zhukov, and A. Goryunov, AKAlpha. "Znanie", 1974.
24. "The World around us is Transparent," P.Oshchepkov, L.Pirozhnikov. "Znanie. 1980r.
25. "Omnivision without Miracles," N. Blinov. "Znanie", 1984
26. "3vukovidenie", P.Oshchepkov, L.Pirozhnikov. "Znanie", 1984
27. "Technique Heals," Z. Katona. "Mir, 1980.
28. "The Science of Pain," G. Kassil. "Science", 1969.

29. "Izvestia" newspaper, № 207, 07.08.91 7g. "They wanted to mark the defenders of the White House", N. Burbiga.
30. Newspaper "Trud", 01.11.92. "Psi" weapons are extremely dangerous", A.Isaev.
31. Journal "Bulletin of Biophysical Medicine," #4, 1992, pp. 25-29.
32. Magazine "Sputnik", special edition, autumn 1991
33. Journal "Technique of Youth", #4, 1993.
34. Magazine "Zarubezhnoe Voennoe Obozrenie", #4, 1994, pp.10-14.
36. Magazine "Voennaya Mysl," #6, 1993, pp.36-45 The "Northern Bee" newspaper, No 11(14), November 1991. "Six million people die annually in the country from unknown radiation.
37. The newspaper "Molodost Sibiri" ("The Youth of Siberia"), No 5, 27.01.91, Novosibirsk, "1/6 of the world - ward No 6".
38. The newspaper "Top Secret", № 8 (51), 1993. "The Dream Machine.
30. 30. "Yurydychnaia gazeta", Ns 5, 1992, "Mind the Psychotronic Weapon".
40. "Yurydychnaia gazeta, Ns 6, 1992, "Attention Psychotronic Weapons".
41. The newspaper "Moskovsky komsomolets", 26.09.93, "A Thousand Days of Zombie" (Confessions of a Stooge).
42. The newspaper Moskovsky Komsomolets, 22.08.93, "Thousand Days of the Ephah".
43. The newspaper "Moskovsky Komsomolets", 26.08.93 "Thousand days of the ephah".
44. The newspaper "Top Secret", # 2, 1994. "The War of Minds" by Yu.
45. 45. "Top Secret" newspaper, # 2, 1994. "Fear, Secret Medicine".
48. Newspaper "News of Intelligence and Counterintelligence," No. 21-22, 1994. "How I Was Tested for KGB Involvement."
47. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda", 22.07.94. "Whoever creates "Psi" weapons will be the ruler of the world," by S. Kuzika.
48. The newspaper "Argumenty i Fakty", No 48, 1994. "Brainiacs" by Y. Vorobyevsky.
49. The newspaper Megapolis-Express, #38, 27.09.95. "The Secret Power Comes to M-9" by Z. Goryaev.
50. The Moskovskie Novosti newspaper, #14, April 3-10, 1994. "Man as a Black Box".
51. "Literaturnaya Gazeta," No. 24, 15.04.94. "From Lubyanka to the Kremlin and Back," by G. Tsitrynyak.
52. News of Intelligence and Counterintelligence, No. 5-6(12-13), "Non-lethal Weapons".
53. Argumenty i Fakty newspaper, No. 7 1994. "Psychotropic Weapons," by S. Osipov.
54. Newspaper "On the Verge of Impossibility". № 9 (39), 1994 r. "Psychotronic Warfare."
55. The newspaper "Vecherniy Kiev", 23.06.94. "A Dream to the Mind."
56. The newspaper "Moskovskie novosti", #12, March 20-27, 1994. "Two Steps from Mind Control," by N. Loginova and V. Chelikov.
57. The newspaper "Argumenty i fakty", #14, 1994. 58. "They turned my son into a zombie", V. Polupanov.
58. Newspaper "The Cranberries", #11(43), 1994. "They won't take prisoners", V. Sedletsky, Doctor of Technical Sciences.
59. ("On the Verge of the Impossible" newspaper, #6 (148), 1995.
60. The Cranberries newspaper, #9(41), 1994. "Open Letter to President Kuchma," by V. Sedletsky, Doctor of Technical Sciences.
61. "Express Gazette," No. 7 (8), 1994. "Zombies are coming".
62. The newspaper "Top Secret", #9 (64), 1994. "How they kill the soul," A. Terekhov.
63. Smena" newspaper, № 199, 29.08.95. "Psychotronic weapon is more terrible than a sabre, bullet, and atom", O. Zasorin, Moscow - St. Petersburg.
64. Program of work of the 2nd International Conference "Human Planetary Security Concept" (June 22-24, 1995, Kiev, Ukraine).
65. Proclamation "To the Remnants of Reason in the Name of Stopping "Birobotic Madness"", A. Bojan, President of the Foundation "Gratitude", V. Sedletsky, President of the League of Independent Scientists, Doctor of Engineering. D.Sci. Sedletskiy, doctor of technical sciences, president of the League of Independent Scientists, Kiev, ul.13 310, P.O. Box 51, phone 245-18-96, fax 271-78-40.

66. Newspaper "Golos", № 49(238), 1995 "I, zombie, choose zombie", N. Dmitriev, 4 st.

67. Anomaly" newspaper, № 22(106), 1995, pp.4-5, "On Polytron from the depths of Microcosmos", "Monologue about Man, wonders of psychotronics and humane weapons", "To psychotronics: the Nobel Prize", "Parliamentary hearings on environmental pollution by electromagnetic and other radiations", October 24, 1995.

68. Newspaper "I, Bodyguard", No 14, 1995. "Who is not a zombie in Russia", V. Dvoinov.

69. 78. "The Secret of Death Biogenerators", V. Kondakov, "Without the Secrecy Clause", No 3 (41), 1995.

70. Newspaper "It Can't Be," No. 2 (40), 1995. "The Truth about Psychotronic Weapons," V. Kondakov

71. The Cranberries" newspaper, No 1 (45), 1995. "Beam of the Devil", S. Nikolaev.

72. Newspaper "It Can't Be" #8, 1995. "Zombirovanie: Myth or Reality", I. Tsarev.

73. 73. "On the Verge of the Impossible" newspaper, #5 (145), 1995.

74. 74. "It Can't Be," "On the Death Ranch," #4 (42), 1995.

75. The newspaper "Megapolis-Express" #12, 22.03.95. "Satan Recruits Children" by V. Anisimov.

76. Newspaper "On the Verge of the Impossible," #6 (148), 1995. "How Mankind is Led by Nose," L. Nevskaya, S. Frolov

77. Newspaper "Trud" ("Trud"), # 184 (22444), 05.10.95. "Nerves of people have become useless", M. Zubov.

78. 78. The newspaper "Argumenty i fakty", #23, 1990.

79. newspaper "Pravda", # 211, 22.07.88. "Hawks are looking for prey", L. Kuznetsov.

80. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda", #261, 14.11.90. "ZOMBI Program: Bluff or Not?"

81. "CIA: Espionage, Terrorism, Sinister Plans," A. Aseevsky, Moscow, Political Literature, 1988

82. "Biocontrol, Theory and Practice," Novosibirsk, Nauka, Siberian Branch, 1988

83. Izvestia newspaper, No. 47, 1988, "Effects on the subconscious," S. Agafonov.

84. Glasnost" information bulletin, #10. "Russian Winter and Sverdlovsk Democracy."

85. Voice of the Universe" newspaper, 6-7, 1991. "Psychofascism", Dr. T. Dichev.

86. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda", # 194-195, 27.08.91 "Authors of program "Zombie" found in Kiev", O. Mustafieva.

87. "Nezavisimaya Gazeta, # 146, 19.10.91. "Bioenergetics Under Arms," D. Frolov.

88. "Neurophysiological Mechanisms of Thinking", 1985, N. Bekhtereva.

89. The newspaper "Spectrum", 1990, Nizhniy Tagil, "Psychics, UFO, Communication with Space - isn't it a secret experiment of our people", B.Volkov.

90. 78. Newspaper "Na zmenu", 25.09.91, "Zombies walk beside us", B.Volkov.

91. The newspaper "Na zmenu" 04.10.91 "After narcosis - in extrasensory perception", B. Volkov.

92. newspaper "Na zmenu", 23.07.92. "Man - machine", B.Volkov.

93. The newspaper "Tagil worker", 18.02.93 ã. "The aliens have nothing to do with it", B. Volkov.

94. Tagilsky Rabochiy" newspaper, 08.04.93. "Symbiosis of Brain and Electronics", B. Volkov.

95. Newspaper "Express Chronicle"; 07.07.95.

96 Report by S.Grigoryants, 4th Conference "KGB - yesterday, today, tomorrow".

97. "Physical Bases of Microwave Auditory Effect," Pushchino, USSR Academy of Sciences, Pushchino Scientific Center, Institute of Theoretical and Experimental Biophysics, R. Tigranyan, V. Shorokhov, 1991.

- 98 Newspaper "Evening Moscow", 30.01.96. "As a means of struggle against terrorism", M. Kostikov.
99. Newspaper "News of Intelligence and Counterintelligence", Na 3 (60), 1996. "Bioenergetics: Fiction or Truth?", M. Zagainov.
100. The newspaper "Secret Power", Na 2, 1996, "The World Ruler", I. Tsarev.
101. Brochure "Radiogihydraulic Effect and its Possible Application", G. Schelkunov, Pushchino.
102. Newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda", 07.05.96. "Psychotronic weapon - exists", M. Morozov
103. Independent Expertise of "Shield" Union, 1992
- 104 Address by M. Tsaregorodtsev, President of the International Independent Research Center for Psychiatry.
105. Interview with former KGB agent A. Chuiiko "Ethan" (tape recording).
106. Newspaper "Trud", 07.04.96 "The last right of zombie", M. Zubov. Appeal to banks and commercial structures of human rights organizations: Moscow branch of Information Center for Human Rights, direction: Protection of citizens from psychotronic terrorism, Committee of Russian Refugees Union, Union for the Fight for Human Rights, Charity Foundation "Human Rights Defender", Moscow People's Commission, Center of Public Relations "Sirius", "Liberator".
107. The appeal of St.-Petersburg Society of Protection of the Person from bioenergetic terror.
108. "Diagnosis of Karma", S. Lazarev. "The Young Guard, 1993.
109. "Psychotronic Warfare." I. Gurtovoy and G. Vinokurov, "Mystery", Moscow, 1993.
110. "Journal of the American Society for Psychical Research," M. Grosso, 1989.
111. Address of participants of the International Colloquium "New Frontiers of Experimental Medicine and Field Energy", J. Fitzger Center, Kalamadoo, Michigan, USA, April 13, 1989.
112. Newspaper "Moscow Bulletin," № 10, 1990, K. Astakhov.
113. The newspaper "Pravda", 30.12.92. Interview with the director of the ISTC "Vent" A. Akimov.
114. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya pravda", 27.09.91. "The mental weapon was not found, but 500 million were spent".
115. Journalist investigation by the newspaper Komsomolskaya pravda, O. Volkov, in his book, "Psychotronic Warfare.
116. Journal of the USSR Academy of Sciences "Biophysics," 1965
117. Journal of Biological Radio Communications, 1968, B. Kazhinsky.
118. "Experimental suggestion, research," 1962, L. Vasiliev.
119. The Voice, No. 4, 1991, "Toma sapiens or biorobot," Y. Fomin.
120. Confidential interview with one of the employees of the secret KGB research institute "Volna" engaged in the development of psychotronic weapon technology
121. Conversation with the inventor of biogenerators A. Okhatrin.
122. Interview with Academician V. Kaznacheev (tape recording).
123. Confidential interview with Militarized Industrial Complex specialist, engaged in development of psychotronic weapon technologies.
124. Interview with the prosecutor of the Russian Federation Prosecutor General's Office (tape recording).
125. Conversation with the director of "Venta" Akimov and his colleagues in the building of the Federation of Peace and Concord.
126. Journal "Incredible, legendary, obvious", Na 71281, July 1996, "Psychotronic weapon exists!", O. Zasorin.
127. Law on Weapons, art. 6, p.d, signed by the Chairman of the Supreme Soviet of the Russian Federation on May 12, 1993.
128. Textbook for Universities, 6th edition, revised and enlarged, Moscow: High School, 1978. From Physics Course (N.M. Liventsev), Physics Course (atomic and nuclear physics, fundamentals of medical cybernetics and medical electronics).

129. "Spent biofield influence fixes device created in Stavropol military-technical school of communication". Special report in the program "Segodnya" of NTV television company, 27-12.95. Hosted by Tatiana Mitkova
130. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda," 14.11.90. "Remote Biodiagnostics can be carried out with the help of photoelectronic equipment created in Academician A.Okhatrin's laboratory.
132. The newspaper "Moskovsky Komsomolets", 21.03.92, "Life Eternal".
131. Weekly Publication "Forecast and Panorama" Saratov, 19.12,91 V. Brovko, E. Semenova.
132. Journal "Nauka i zhizn", #9, 1990. "A New Program for the Study of the Brain."
133. The "UFO" newspaper, #139-140. Alexander Lebed, Secretary of the Security Council and Assistant to the President for National Security, acknowledged that psychotronic warfare was taking place in the former USSR.
134. The newspaper "Slavic Unity", 04.08.96 "Weapon of Darkness", N. Avakumov.
135. The newspaper "Primorskye novosti", № 34, 1996, St. Petersburg, "Psikhotron Secrets of the High Rent". V. Tarasov.
136. The newspaper "UFO", September 1995, St. Petersburg, "We all are a bit of zombies, but who pushes the button?
137. Journal "Nature and Man", No.2, 1993. "We are not in Cosmos", B. Volkov.
138. Journal of Nature and Man, No. 1, 1994. "With Vine and Frame," B. Volkov.
139. Journal of Nature and Man, No. 1, 1994. "A Personal Version of Gagarin's Death," B. Volkov.
140. Journal of "Nature and Man," No. 1, 1994. "Computer - I am your double", B. Volkov.
141. Newspaper "Grad-Simbirsk", October 1995. "Biorobot considers himself a victim", B. Volkov.
142. Newspaper "Grad-Simbirsk", #14, 1996. "We are the victims of the electronic brain", B. Volkov.
143. 144. Grad-Simbirsk newspaper, #25, 1996 "I had a voice", B. Volkov.
144. The newspaper Moskovskaya pravda, 1989. "Chumak's Revelations".
145. "Philosophy of Computer Revolution," 1991, Professor A. Rakitov
146. Idel-Ural newspaper, No. 21-22 (51-52), November 1994, Ufa. "I am a victim of Russia's secret services," A. Imangulov.
147. Newspaper "Idel-Ural", № 19-20, 1994. "Psychotronic Weapons: Reality or Fiction?", A. Yamayev.
148. The newspaper "Sovetskaya Bashkiriya", 6-8 July 1993, "Zombie?
149. The Leninetz newspaper, #89 (8169), 1995, Ufa. "Who Shoots from Psychotronic Weapons?", "Who Is the Master of Hell's Kitchen?", P. Tryaskin.
150. The newspaper "Together," #8 (109), 1995, Ufa. "Psychotronic Weapons. Honor and Dignity".
151. Unannounced Visit, #9 (23), 1996. "Psi-rocket on New York," by M. Chudakov.
152. The newspaper "Soviet Youth Today", 20.02.93, Riga, "Brain Killing" by N. Kabanov.
153. Newspaper "Komsomolskaya pravda", 15.10.96. "One combat generator can turn a division into a herd of rams", A. Khokhlov.
154. "Moskovskie Vedomosti", November-December 1990. "Psychotronic Weapon" by K. Astakhov.
155. Rabochaya Tribuna" newspaper, July 1992. "Theory of microleptonic fields, creation of devices and methods of generation and registration of such fields, study of their influence on living objects", A. Okhatrin.
156. "Virtual reality technologies, state of the art and development trends." Association "Ecology of the Unknowable," Center for Virtual Research, Moscow, 1996.
157. Newspaper "Trud-7", 15.11.96. "Cyber named Mowgli", I. Tsarev.

158. Newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda," 6.10.96, "Soul in Computer Networks," by S. Kuzina.
159. Newspaper "Sovetskaya Rossiya", 11.11.95 "Operation hold the thief", A. Kozlov.
160. Newspaper "Trud-7", 3.11.95 "The gun loaded by fear", B. Braginsky, V. Zakrevsky.
161. The newspaper "Izvestiya", 3.07.86. "Extrasensory through the eyes of a physicist", B. Konovalov.
162. The newspaper Krasnaya zvezda, 23.07.91. "Information weapon: myth or reality?", A. Vladimirov.
163. The Krasnaya Zvezda ("Red Star") newspaper, 23.07.91. "A-50: locator up in the sky", N.Poroskov.
164. The newspaper "Krasnaya Zvezda", 27.12.90. "Project "Marauder" and Others", M. Rebrov.
165. Newspaper "Trud", October 6-12, 1995. "No rocket shall reach Moscow", /Plasma Weapon/, R.Abramenko.
166. Delovoy Mir newspaper, 8.06.95. "We Shall Reach Far Space", Radchuk.
167. Newspaper "Trud", 3.02.95. "Tectonic weapon: a myth or reality?", N. Bardadimov.
168. The newspaper "Segodnya", 10.02.95. "SOI: What next?", V. Belaus.
169. "Nezavisimaya Gazeta, 20.01.95. "Blinding as a method of warfare: laser beam may become another means of mass destruction".
170. Segodnya" newspaper, 25.01.95. "General Designer Igor Velichko: searching for the new ways into space".
171. Novoe Vremya" magazine, No. 39, 1994. "Arsenal 21: With What Armament Will Russia Meet the 21st Century?", A. Pikaev.
172. Krasnaya Zvezda" newspaper, 26.08.94. "The next century will kill nothing", M. Rebrov.
173. Izvestiya, 26.06.93. "Plague and bomb (bacteriological weapon)", S. Leskov.
174. "Literaturnaya gazeta, 14.04.93 "Oxygen starvation /biological weapon/" by N. Zenova.
175. "Nezavisimaya Gazeta, 2.12.92. "Biological program is closed", O. Belyavsky.
176. The newspaper "Krasnaya zvezda", 12.09.92. "Proud secret of "Almaz", A.Dokuchaev.
177. The newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda, 27.02.92 "The diamond over Russia and the cellars under it"/Russian missile defense/, A.Dokuchaev.
178. The newspaper "Krasnaya zvezda", 26.02.92. "Lattice directing a bullet against a bullet", Z. Frolov.
179. "Krasnaya Zvezda, 27.08.84, "Metamorphosis of the death ray /Laser weapon/, P. Zarubin.
180. Newspaper "Trud", 28.09.93, "The Sky at Almazekh", I.Tsarev.
181. "Nezavisimaya Gazeta, 8.07.93 "No plasma weapons in Russia", A.Kuzmin.
182. Izvestiya" newspaper, 3.12.92. "Space communication market starts competition", B.Konovalov.
183. Newspaper "Poisk", 29.03.90. "Electronic Roundabout" /about computer networks/, M. Cole.
184. Magazine "Science and Life", # 2, 1991. "The History of Computer Creation", A. Boiko.
185. Red Star" newspaper, 15.06.96. "Will hackers bring about Apocalypse if they get to nuclear weapons through computer networks?", I. Martsevich.
186. Delovoy Mir" ("Business World") newspaper, 5.07.96. "Global wireless communication", B. Chertok.
187. "Rossiyskaya Gazeta," 5.08.92. "Space Communication Doctrine," V. Bulgak.
188. Newspaper "Trud", 17.09.96. "Telephones and Computers", Y. Fomin.
189. "Rossiyskaya Gazeta", 28.06.91, "Sovereign Earth Satellite", V. Bulgak.

190. "Nezavisimaya Gazeta", 20.02.96, "Where does information superhighway lead: Russia in four computer networks", G. Smolin.
191. "Life Eternal" newspaper, no. 2, February 1995 "Classified Miracle", S. Leonova.
192. The Eternal Life newspaper, No. 8, September 1995, "Science Leads to God," compiled by CPC.
193. ("Eternal Life" newspaper, #8, September 1995), V. Kirilov, "The Shadows of Death".
194. Newspaper "UFO", "The aliens" by V. Ivanov.
195. The newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda, 5.07.97, "The Pentagon 'used the services of the Martians'".
196. The Krasnaya Zvezda newspaper. 5.07.97 "A Spy Finding" by N. Poroskov.
197. Newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda, 16.05.97 "The West turns to an "information attack", E. Surovtseva.
198. The newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda, 31.05.97. "If the Radio Head Sparks in Orbit" by V. Baberdin.
199. The newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda, 14.06.97. "The Computer Builds Tanks and Teaches to Fight on Them" by S. Bobrovsky.
200. Confidential Conversation with the Director of a Closed Military Enterprise.
201. Confidential information obtained from a researcher at a closed research institute.
202. Confidential information received from the executive officer of the military-industrial complex, Koltsov Center, located near Novosibirsk.
203. Confidential information received from the former employee of a secret military facility/enterprise in Dzerzhinsk.
204. Interview with the KGB general O. Kalugin.
205. Interview with Sidorov, head of IRE laboratory (tape recording).
206. Confidential information obtained from the employee of the secret manufacturing plant "Shikhany".
207. Confidential information obtained from a former employee of ANT.
208. Confidential information obtained from the head of a department of the Ministry of Defence Industry.
209. from a general of the Ministry of Internal Affairs
210. Confidential information received from the investigator for particularly important cases at the General Prosecutor's Office of the Russian Federation.
211. Confidential information received from the employee of ICEM, SB AS USSR.
212. Confidential information received from academician X.
213. Newspaper "Svoy vzglyad", Ryazan, January, 1998. "Thought Rules the World".
214. Confidential information obtained from military-industrial complex employees.
215. The newspaper "Moskovskie novosti" #5, February 2-9, 1997. "Virtual Reality Knocks at the Kremlin," by E. Krasikov.
216. Newspaper "Kriminal" Nizhniy Novgorod, Na 1, January 1998.
217. Novosti Moskovskie Novosti newspaper, #5, February 2-9, 1997.
218. The newspaper "Komsomolskaya Pravda", 22.01.97. "German Consul under the governor's guard.
219. Newspaper "Megapolis-Express", 21.05.97 "The chicken is fried, the chicken is steamed, the chicken also wants to live" by E. Pestrukhina.
220. The newspaper "Megapolis-Express", 21.05.97, "The world's biggest sensation" by E. Pestrukhina.
221. "The Way to the Apocalypse," Knock at the Golden Gate, Y. Vorobyevsky, Moscow, 1997.
- 222 Proceedings of the Institute of Radiophysics and Radioelectronics, 1988. Naukova Dumka Publishing House, Kiev.
223. Collections. "Environment - Radio Sounding," V. Shostapalov. a) Radiophysical Methods of Signal Processing (MIPT), b) Electrical Signals - Processing (MIPT).

224. Journal of Radio and Communications, 1991, "Radiotechnical Devices of Oscillators".
225. Soviet Radio magazine, 1968, "Rockets. Control by Radio."
226. Newspaper "It Can't Be," No. 1(75) 1998, "Electromagnetic Apocalypse."
227. Journal "PC World", #7, "Multidimensional World, Data Revolt," by A. Prokhorov.
228. The newspaper "Trud", 10.01.98, "The Third Breakthrough."
229. "Mad Psychiatry," 1997. Secret Materials on the Use of Punitive Psychiatry in the USSR, A. Prokopenko.
230. "Informatization of Russia on the Threshold of the 21st Century." General title of the rubric of the firm "SYNTHEG."
231. "Creativity: System Approach, Laws of Development, Decision-Making," 1999 by N. Abovsky.
232. "The Beginning of Neuroinformatics," 1999, F. Shirokov.
233. "History of neurocomputers", 1999, Y. Tsygzhina, A. Galushkina.
234. "Russian News." 1994 г. "Do psychotronic weapons exist". S. Demkin.
235. The newspaper "Rabochaya Tribuna", 1990. "Lepton Weapon."
236. "Non Mortal Weapons," 1993 Foreign Military Review, S. Vybornov
237. "The Concept of Subject-Oriented Computerized Managerial Activity," 1998 Institute of Psychology, Russian Academy of Sciences.
238. "Energy Information Security of Man and State. Problems and Ways Out", 1997, M.Aleshnikov, B.Rodionov, V.Titov, V.Yarochkin.
239. "Information-Wave Medicine and Biology," 1998, Allegro-press, V. Loshilov.
240. "Who will own conscientious weapons in the 21st century?", 1997 Almanac of Interregional Statehood.
241. "Psychotronic Weapons and the Security of Russia," 1999. E. Tsygankov, V. Lopatin.
242. Newspaper "Trud", 3.11.71. "Steps into the Unknown", I. Malinevsky.
243. Supplement to the newspaper "Izvestiya" - "Week", 30.07.73. "Hypnosis: legend and truth", by doctor of medical sciences P.Bul.
244. Newspaper "Socialist Industry", 16.02.74, "Hypnosis irradiates", V. Skuratnik.
245. The newspaper "Moskovsky komsomolets", 7.05.76. "The Air Castle with Red Wallpaper", I. Weiss.
246. Newspaper "Moskovsky Komsomolets", 10.08.77 ã. "Lord of his emotions", O. Franzen.
247. The newspaper Versiya, 15-21 June 1999. "Purely Russian zombification", E. Kostrikova, A. Koloshin.
248. Confidential information obtained from the employees of the Research Institute of the Ministry of Defense Industry.
249. Information letter from the Commission on Human Rights. The letter contains legal information (documents) exposing the use of psychiatry for punitive purposes and as a testing ground for criminal experiments on its prisoners. The work of the Commission is endorsed by the UN.
250. Interview with Dr. Kotov, deputy director of Anokhin's Institute of Normal Physiology (tape recording).
251. Confidential information from FSB agents, who infiltrated the human rights movement.
252. Conversation between the human rights activists of Novosibirsk and the city's chief psychiatrist, T. Zolotova (tape recording).
253. Conversation with the Minister of Health of the Russian Federation A. Tsaregorodtsev (tape recording)
254. Confidential information from the employee of the military-industrial complex.
255. Confidential information from the employee of the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation.

256. The newspaper "Argumenty i fakty" #50, 1995. "Weapons of mass seduction", B. Dmitriev.
257. "Rossiskaya gazeta, 10.06.95. "Life after death in a computer?", A. Valentinov.
258. Scientific material from a closed research institute about the psychophysical state of a human being during his exposure to radiation, microwave, acoustics, prolonged exposure to vibration, pain, heat, cold, etc.
259. Interview with the mayor of Vladivostok V. Cherepkov.
260. Interview with Colonel-General Volkogonov.